*'We are in violence;

it is the curse of the land'*

—Frank Church,
U.S. Senator

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who carried the dreams of millions of Negroes in his nonviolent battle for racial freedom, was slain by a white sniper Thursday.

The 39-year-old Nobel Peace Prize winner fell dying on the balcony of his hotel room, a gaping bullet wound in his neck. "Martin is dead . . . God help us all," gasped a civil rights leader when he heard the news. Police said they had no leads to King's assassin.

President Johnson went on national television to plead for calm.

DROPPED RIFLE

Police issued a bulletin for a young, dark-haired white man who dashed out of a flophouse across South Main Street from the Lorraine Hotel, where King was staying. They said he dropped a semi-automatic Browning rifle on the sidewalk and fled in a car.

"We have no definite lead we can report at this time regarding the assailant," Chief Frank Holloman said.

King, who walked with death on cold northern streets and sunbaked southern highways in his 10-year battle as the nation's most prominent civil rights leader, was standing on the second-floor balcony of his room at the Lorraine Hotel at dusk talking to his followers on the street.

WHEELED, FELL'

He asked a bandleader from one of his Chicago projects to play Precious Lord at a mass rally later, and smilingly agreed to his chauffeur's demands that he put on his tophat.

"I heard the gun," said the driver, Solomon Jones. "He wheeled around and fell on his back."

James Jackson, a local Negro leader, said he had just started to speak to King when "the bullet exploded in his face."

King was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital emergency room, a bloody white towel around his throat and an oxygen mask on his face. Doctors reported he died at 5:05 p.m.

Anguish, Shock —And Shame

NEW YORK (AP)—From President Johnson to a woman weeping in Detroit, the U.S. reacted to the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Thursday night with anguish, shock and pleas that his death would not lead to the violence he deplored.

"We have been saddened," President Johnson said on radio and television. "I ask every citizen to reject the blind violence that has struck Dr. King, who lived by non-violence."

Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey said the slaying "brings shame to our country."

NEW STRENGTH

"An apostle of non-violence has been the victim of violence." The vice-president, however, said Dr. King's death will bring new strength to the cause he fought for.

Mrs. Rosa Parks, one of the earliest prominent figures in the modern civil rights movement, wept at her Detroit home: "I can't talk now, I just can't talk."

"Martin is dead," said James Farmer, former national director of the Congress of Racial Equality. "God help us all."

ANGER . . . LOVE'

"We kill our conscience, we cut open our soul. I can't say what is in my heart—anger, fear, love for him and sorrow for his family and the family of black people."

James Meredith, who was shot in June, 1966, during a voter registration march in Mississippi, said: "This is America's answer to the peaceful, non-violent way of obtaining rights in this country."

Peter Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the NAACP is "shocked and deeply grieved by the dastardly murder of Dr. Martin Luther King."

CAN'T BE KILLED'

"It will not stay the civil rights movement; it will instead spur it to greater activity."

Leontyne Price, a soprano for the Metropolitan Opera and a Negro, said: "What Dr. Martin Luther King stood for and was, can never be killed with a bullet."

Whitney Young, executive director of the National Urban League, said: "The party must adapt to change that Queen Victoria could never have visualized."

Pearson is neutral. But to some, at least, it seemed that

Mail Order Guns Still Legal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Judiciary committee Thursday killed President Johnson's proposal to outlaw the sale of firearms through the mail. However, by a 9-3 vote the president's Safe Streets Act was approved to provide $100,000,000 worth of federal grants the first year and $300,000,000, worth the second year to states and communities to bolster law enforcement.

Angry crowds of singing, shouting rock-throwing Negroes roamed the nation's streets Thursday night, looting and demonstrating violently to the assassination of Martin Luther King.

General rioting flared in Memphis, Tenn., where King was gunned down earlier in the evening. Police exchanged sporadic gunfire with rioters. State troopers and national guardsmen were rushed in to help restore order.

White newsmen at the Lorraine Hotel, where King was shot, said a gang of Negro toughs backed them into a corner and told them "You're going to get yours next. And it ain't going to be too long." Cooler heads among the Negroes prevailed.

Elsewhere over the nation, disturbances were reported in the Harlem and Brooklyn areas of New York City, and in Washington, Raleigh, N.C., Birmingham, Ala., Miami, Fla., Jackson, Miss., Oakland, Calif., and Boston.

Peaceful demonstrations were widespread.

Harlem Looters Busy

Word of King's death triggered a rash of window smashing, looting and fires in the heart of Harlem. Disturbances also were reported in Brooklyn.

A four-alarm fire broke out at 125th Street and Lenox Avenue and firemen reported they were being attacked with stones and bottles.

Looting reportedly was heavy on 125th Street and a number of young Negroes were seen carrying television sets, radios and tape recorders.

Firemen also were reported battling minor fires in various sections of Harlem.

Mayor John Lindsay left a Broadway play when he heard of King's death. With a Negro police official, Lindsay went immediately to Harlem and was reportedly walking the streets of the Negro community, trying to lend an aura of calm to the troubled area.

Riot Squads Called

In Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section, a UPI newscaster counted 25 looters on Fulton Street cleaning a clothing store of its stock.

In the area of the disturbances, William Greenwald, 26, a United Press International reporter, was beaten and kicked by a group of young Negroes. His wallet and tape recorder were stolen.

At Negro colleges and universities throughout the south, students spilled into the streets, chanting and throwing rocks.

In Raleigh, hundreds of young Negroes battled police, smashed windows, looted stores and stoned cars. Cars passing Shaw University were

Hear Warnings About Unity, Adapting to Change

Roaring 10,000 Bid Farewell to Pearson

By RON COLLISTER

OTTAWA (Special)—Prime Minister Pearson Thursday paid a sentimental farewell to his party.

He did so with a warning it will be the end of Canada if Quebec steps out of Confederation.

He might have been hinting Pierre Elliot Trudeau, who is rumored to be his favorite to succeed him.

He told the crowded, roaring throng of 10,000 gathered to send him on his way that the new Liberalism must concern itself with conditions of life far removed from those only a few years ago when Liberal doctrines were formed.

It is foolish to reject, or ignore ideas and policies merely because they would have shocked Queen Victoria.

"Today Liberals must tackle problems that our grandparents never heard of; the quality, as well as the material standard of living."

These problems cover urban development and housing, communications on land, water and in the air, and in outer space.

Without giving his preference, Pearson was saying the party must be put into the hands of a man with the ability to make tremendous change.

"The kind who fights intolerance, prejudice, discrimination and every form of injustice."

"Our party must march into the future with confidence and without doubt."

"We can leave to conservatism and socialism the placid satisfaction that comes from adherence to the out-of-date dogmas and slogans of yesteryear."

It was one of Pearson's greatest speeches, received with the affection and grati-

ANDY CAPP

Mainland Jester Tolerated Here?

FOLLY OF THE WISE: Pity the poor Vancouver fool Joachim Folkins if you will. The Canada Council gave him a grant of $3,000 and all hell has broken loose around his ears.

Mr. Folkins is worth every cent. Before the emotional factions get into high gear, consider his worth in cold hard cash as an investment.

There have been yards of magazine and newspaper stories written about Mr. Folkins. He is the centre of attraction at the courthouse in the summer and the tourists love him. He has gained national and international publicity for Vancouver.

If the federal government had given Vancouver the same sum for tourist publicity and advertising there would not have been a murmur from the lunatic fringe, but because the fool gets a dollar they go into orbit.

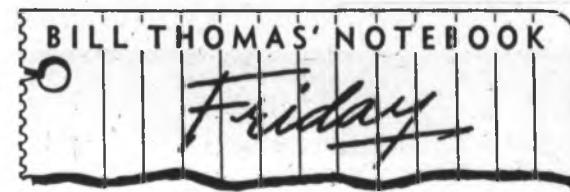

Syndicated columnist Richard Needham discussed the fool at length in an article in the January issue of Vancouver Life, saying: "He is what I would call a first-class man, indeed a great man. Women and children (who understand life far better than men) recognize this quality in him."

Mr. Needham goes on to admire "his willingness to be a fool who knows it, among fools who don't."

Perhaps Victoria should ask Mr. Folkins to move over here where fools are not only tolerated, but venerated.

At $3,000 he would certainly be of good value from a publicity standpoint.

TASTE TREAT: For a change of pace try Ray Orchard's pate. The CFAX newspaper offers this recipe and it works. Take equal amounts of chicken liver and pork meat. Simmer chicken livers in stock and add a bay leaf. When tender grind up livers, pork meat and a clove of garlic and a little thyme.

For flavor lace the mixture with brandy and add more stock until the mixture is sort of sloppy. Cook for an hour and a half over a double boiler and then pour into a dish to set. This is delicious with thin toasted rye bread.

FOLK VICTORIA: Just to prove a point Sybil Grant sent in a bunch of her giant daffodils. They look like a bouquet for an amazon.

There was no prize for this tall flower contest so we invented one — two tickets for the Soviet Navy Chorus concert at the Memorial Arena Monday. The contest now is closed.

TASTE BUDDIES: A woman went into Hy's Steak House and ordered the most expensive wine on the list. Manager Bill McAdam wanted to save her customer money and suggested she leave, the choice of bottle to him.

He decanted a jug of the local grape concoction into a decanter and presented it. The client raved about how she could tell the great French stuff from the rest.

Bill McAdam broke the secret and the lady was not amused but she did save money.

IVAN ASHORE: The Soviet Navy Chorus got a standing ovation in Vancouver and the audience went wild. The Russians were a bit confused because their custom is to applaud the audience.

Well-wishers ran down the aisles and tried to shake their hands. The navy group is under the iron discipline of Capt. M. K. Shirokov and only after he slipped out onto the stage to give the word did the sailors respond. They will be here in Memorial Arena for a concert Monday.

LONG WAY TO GO: Usually a role in a musical means long hours of rehearsal, but for Victoria Operatic Society star Barbara Despres it also means miles of travel. The show opens April 30, and already Miss Despres figures she has covered 3,500 miles on the road to and from rehearsals.

The cast is certainly getting to church Sundays. Weekday rehearsals are held at Servius Hall but Sundays the cast moved into the former church at Henry and Mary Streets.

Antabuse Helps Alcoholics But Doctor Must Be Seen

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I am a hopeless alcoholic. Due to the fact that I am handicapped, I feel resentful and sorry for myself. I am lonely so I drink. In company with people, I still feel lost and lonely.

I am well aware that the drinking is slowly killing me, yet I crave alcohol. I have tried AA and psychiatry and in desperation have started taking Antabuse.

Is it possible to take this drug for a year without ill effects? — Mrs. M. P. W.

Yes, it is sometimes used for longer than that. But the drug (chemically, disulfiram) should not be in your hands at all unless under a physician's supervision.

In some forms of your disease it should not be used at all, and in the presence of some self-imposed sobriety. You have to want to beat the alcohol habit to start with, and in that case the drug sometimes is helpful.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been taking birth control pills as we can't afford any more children. Well, Thursday night I forgot to take my pill, and didn't think of it until Friday night, so I took two. Now I'm worried that I may have goofed up. Please tell me if you think I did. — Mrs. Q.

Well, if you did goof, I hope it will be a pretty baby.

The pills, to be dependable must be taken exactly on schedule, and this business of forgetting one is doubtless the explanation of some pregnancies among pill-users.

Taking two the next day won't make up for the missed one. No harm done otherwise except the possible risk of pregnancy.

Saigon Welcomes Talks But Wariness Indicated

From AP, UPI

South Vietnam's government said Thursday it welcomes U.S. and North Vietnamese contacts as "an initiative to bring an early end to the war in justice and freedom."

It was the government's first reaction to President Johnson's agreement Wednesday to Hanoi's proposal for discussions to halt all bombing of North Vietnam as a prelude to peace talks.

A communiqué was issued shortly after a conference between President Nguyen Van Thieu, U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and envoys of other nations whose troops are fighting in South Vietnam.

WARINESS SEEN

Statements by informed government officials, however, indicated a wariness of U.S. intentions. One Vietnamese diplomat said some government officials believe Johnson had advance knowledge that Hanoi would respond favorably to the bombing halt he called over most of North Vietnam. But he said Johnson had not informed the South Vietnamese.

There was also resentment because the South Vietnamese are not invited to Johnson's weekend conference at Honolulu to discuss the future course of the war.

U.S. AFFAIRS

A U.S. spokesman said the conference is an all-American affair. But the Vietnamese noted that President Chung Hee Park of South Korea will meet Johnson in Honolulu Sunday.

In Wellington, New Zealand, South Vietnam and its six allies reiterated Thursday their determination to fight until peace is attained in Vietnam.

STRONGER EFFORT

The U.S., South Vietnam, South Korea, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines said they would continue — and where possible increase — efforts to meet the requirements of the struggle against the Reds.

The foreign ministers of the seven countries meeting in Wellington underlined their desire for a negotiated peace, but dismissed as unacceptable any imposed form of government in South Vietnam, or "a spurious coalition."

BRITISH VIEW

In London, Prime Minister Wilson told the Commons that Britain and Russia are ready to help Vietnam peace efforts "in any way they can."

The Kremlin, however, maintained official silence on U.S. and British appeals for co-operation and Hanoi's announced readiness to hold preliminary discussions.

PAST STATEMENTS

In Washington, U.S. military officers cited past statements by key North Vietnamese leaders in cautioning against optimism that peace negotiations would bring simultaneous end to the fighting.

They claimed Asian communist history shows a "fight-and-negotiate policy" in a manoeuvre to improve their position at the bargaining table.

WAR FRONT

On the war front, Saigon said U.S. relief forces approached to within one-half mile of the marine combat base at Khe Sanh Thursday amid reports the enemy is lifting the three-month siege as a good-will gesture. Only light artillery and mortar fire from the North Vietnamese opposed marines in the vanguard of the 20,000-man assault.

SOVIET SOURCES

Soviet sources in London explained the light resistance by the fact the North began lifting its siege this week.

They said Hanoi had decided on a withdrawal as a sign of good intentions if the U.S. agrees to preliminary talks for halting all bombing of the North, before peace parley begins. But there was no confirmation of this view from Hanoi.

AIR VENTS

Since the North Vietnamese encircled the base in January, only air supply had kept Khe Sanh in the chips.

One of the highlights of Thursday's Khe Sanh development included marines from the base lining up at vantage points and watching the "liberators" through field glasses.

Drama at Ottawa

AS THE LAST OF THE VOTING delegates stream down today to the business of choosing a new leader who will be prime minister of Canada for as long as the present government can cling to office.

Unless there are further withdrawals of solidly-backed candidates—and at the time of writing there is no evidence of any such surrender—Mr. Paul Elliott Trudeau is the favorite runner.

But Mr. Trudeau's position in his home province of Quebec is somewhat ambiguous. There is a belief among some political observers that he has compromised himself with the Church for his stand on such issues as divorce, abortion and homosexuality. That might very well alienate the rural delegates among whom the Church wields large influence.

The theory that, as a man of French antecedents, Mr. Trudeau would be a power for unity between Quebec and the rest of the country loses credibility when his spectacular confrontation with the independent champion, Mr. Daniel Johnson, is recalled. They showed no inclination towards compromise at the constitution conference in Ottawa, Mr. Trudeau beating the drum for Canadian federalism and Mr. Johnson rigid in his stand for a provincial autonomy that amounts to sovereignty. This is the most divisive force in the country.

Even in the influential big city newspapers in Quebec there is a sharp division. Mr. Claude Ryan of Le Devoir, for example, supports Mr. Paul Hellyer. Mr. Hellyer—as the convention opened Thursday—was fighting hard for commitments from rival candidates to "stop Trudeau" in the late balloting.

Key man in these manoeuvres was Mr. Paul Martin, himself a leading contender. If he and Mr. Hellyer could make a deal one or the other could defeat the urbane Montreal lawyer, whose lack of orthodoxy has captured the imagination of so many.

Mr. Trudeau, of course, could make some deals himself.

Although he has been strictly aloof from the campaign, there is still the possibility that Mr. Pearson himself could give the nod to a candidate if he thought it in the interests of the party. It is an interesting speculation, like so many others that won't be answered until the ballot boxes deliver a verdict tomorrow.

Founding Peoples

DUE TO THE Liberal administration predilection for double-talk, the situation regarding cutbacks in Indian and Eskimo health care is still a matter of some confusion.

No such confusion exists, however, over Ottawa's decision to double Canadian financial assistance to French-speaking African nations to a total of $40,000,000 in the next three years.

Announced last week by Lionel Chevrier, Canada's special ambassador to Francophone Africa, and explained earlier by External Affairs Minister Paul Martin as "an important aspect of the government's policy of giving fuller expression abroad to Canada's bicultural character," the program—which already includes an outright grant of $25,000,000—will come into effect immediately.

Ottawa's incredibly rapid and unequivocal approval of such generous aid to French Africans stands in stark and somewhat frightening contrast to its ditheringly uncertain assistance program for Canadian Indians and Eskimos.

As Paul Martin says, the move may well give strength abroad to Canada's bicultural character, but it says little for whatever other kind of character Canada possesses especially within the word's meaning of moral strength.

Canada's Indians and Eskimos could easily be forgiven if they now re-interpreted the disillusioned Russian peasantry's space age saying of "This year the moon, next year, shoes!" as "This year Africans, next year, us!" in the full recognition that for them Ottawa double-talk and African double-aid adds up simply to double-cross.

Double Trouble

BY CALLING A MEETING of a number of delegates to the Liberal leadership convention with the obvious hope of impressing upon them the fallacy of the present government's claim that this country has two founding races, Mr. Steve Otto, the Liberal member for York East, is making a gallant attempt to establish the position in Canada of the millions of Canadians of neither French nor English origin.

Mr. Otto himself, being of either French or English parentage, has long campaigned against special status being granted to any specific ethnic group in Canada. In his letter to the delegates he wrote: "Of paramount importance to us is the issue of our national destiny. Shall we be one nation or two? Shall any group of Canadians be granted special status, and if so, what shall be the quality of that privilege?"

Mr. Otto has much to support his challenge of the Liberal Party's willing acceptance of the concept of two nations within a nation and his opposition to the Grit government's labelling of English and French Canadians as exclusive members of the "founding" races.

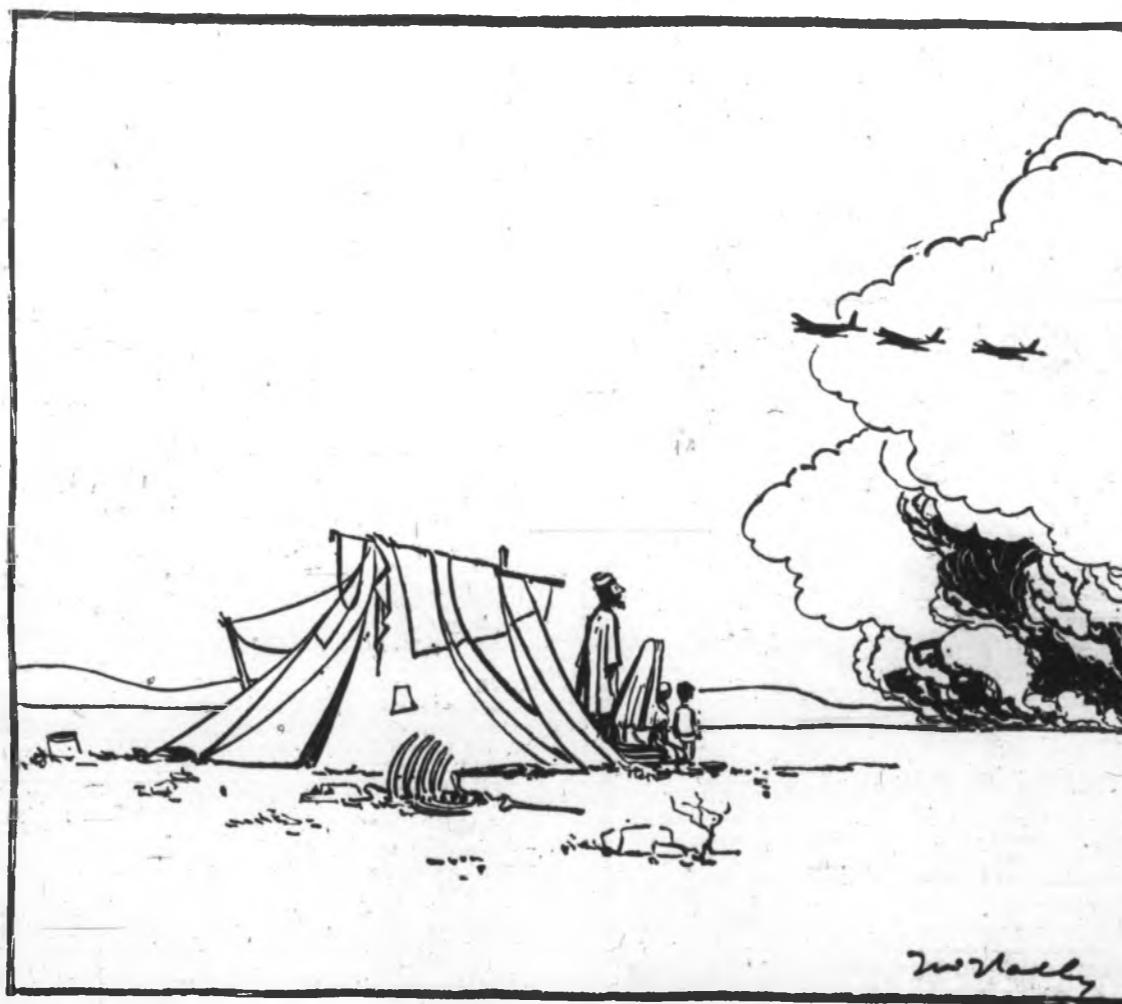

In point of fact there were not two, but many, races that founded the new nation of Canada. This is borne out by the first census taken just four years after Confederation of the four original provinces of Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

This census records that the total population of the four-province Dominion was 3,485,761. It also reports that of this total, 2,110,502 Canadians were of British (English, Irish, Scottish and Welsh) origin, 1,082,940 of French stock, and 284,758 of neither British nor French parentage. There were also 7,561 unspecified.

It also shows that in the three provinces outside Quebec there were more Germans than French (195,038 to 153,123) with a total of neither British nor French of 268,365, which with 1,867,461 British, made 93.31 per cent of non-French to 6.6 per cent of French.

On this basis alone Mr. Otto could establish the right of Canadians of racial backgrounds other than British or French to be recognized equally as founding peoples of this nation—particularly as they now make up more than one-third of our total population.

We wish Mr. Otto luck along with the hope that he can make at least some of the Liberal delegates take a stand on this important issue.

Prague's Example

By AARON R. EINFRANK
from Moscow

THE fall of the Communist titan Antonin Novotny is almost one crack in the crumbling East European fortress which was so brutally constructed by Stalin and so painstakingly shored up by Khrushchev.

Novotny has resigned, giving in to weeks of pressure for his ouster from a Prague reform group headed by Alexander Dubcek, who recently replaced Novotny as head of the Czech Communist party.

Novotny was said to be in poor health. He denied it.

In his 14 years as party boss in Czechoslovakia, Novotny had staked his existence on fealty to the Russians.

First he served Stalin, even to the point of conspiring to send fellow Communists to the gallows and to prison during the purge trials in the decade after the Second World War.

When Khrushchev came to power, Novotny changed his style to be more in tune with Khrushchev's thaw policies. In the 1950s Czechoslovakia ceased to be a Stalinist concentration camp. It became a rather enlightened Khrushchevian prison.

Novotny's crucial importance to Moscow was vividly illustrated by the hasty trip that the party boss Leonid Brezhnev made to Prague at the beginning of December. Uninvited (except perhaps by Novotny) Brezhnev barged in on a meeting of the Central Committee of the Czech Communist party in an attempt to nudge him.

A few years ago Brezhnev's word would have been law. But the best indication of the current mood in East Europe is that Brezhnev could not save Novotny.

In fact, the consensus in Prague is that Brezhnev's trip so angered the Czech party that Novotny's political demise was actually hastened.

In January, the central committee replaced Novotny as Slovak Communist leader with Alexander Dubcek. Novotny was left with the largely honorary title of president.

Since January, Novotny's old guard policies have been under constant fire from Dubcek, a reformist-oriented Communist. Repeating Novotny's position was the persistent rumor in Prague that he was involved in a conspiracy to bring an armored division into the capital as part of an attempt to stop the Dubcek reform movement.

As a result of the change of government in Prague, there is more freedom today in Czechoslovakia than at any time since the Communist take-over in 1948. There is even more freedom than in any other Communist country, including Yugoslavia.

Developments in Czechoslovakia are already affecting other east bloc countries.

Pollish party boss Gomulka is reportedly in trouble for the first time since 1956 when he was brought to power on an anti-Stalinist wave. Gomulka's problem is that the expectations, which accompanied him to power in 1956, have not been fulfilled.

The Communist East German leadership is unhappy that the Czech "disease" will spread. East German party chief Walter Ulbricht is now the last surviving Stalinist titan.

Now, Hungarian Communist boss Janos Kadar is likely to come under more reform pressure in the Hungarian Communist system.

After Francisco Franco

A King May Rule Again in Spain But Problems Posed by Facts

By ROY PEROTT
from Madrid

If you ask an average Spaniard what sort of government is likely to replace the now aging Franco regime he will often, with complete conviction, simply name the one he personally likes best: "Republic, almost certainly . . . Monarchy . . . " Regency . . . The guesses are as mixed as that.

After 30 years of political torpor under the regime, people regard the future in a mood that combines apprehension, a not unpleasant tingling of the nerves, and a straightforward, hungry curiosity to know what sort of a people the Spanish really are these days.

Despite the censorship and police watchfulness there have been increasing attempts to bring real politics back into play in the last few years, shapeless and divided though all the party lines may be under their cobwebs. At Franco's death—he is now 75—the law provides that the Council of State shall meet to nominate a successor, whether King or regent, as chief of state. The crucial thing, naturally, will be the relative strengths of the various political factions—both visible and underground—at the time, how much pressure they can exert to support this new arrangement, or throw the whole thing in the melting pot.

The easiest looking and most suave solution, the one that Franco himself seems to prefer, is the nomination of Prince Don Juan Carlos as king. Now 30 years old, a conventionally handsome, athletic young man, he has been groomed for royal stardom under Franco's personal supervision ever since youth. He might well be an apt figurehead in a homogeneously middle-class country with no social classes—and that is not yet Spain. Despite the obviously strong backing he will get as a so-called "neutral" solution, the most serious-minded among the critics do not rate his chances high. The chief reason they give is that it would indicate a "puppet" situation, with a monarch who is not yet king.

I still think most of them want a quiet life first, with no shooting, and a free press a long way second. But the lawyer spoke with conviction.

As evidence of the restlessness of the bourgeoisie, critics often point to the university students. Sons of the middle-class, regularly over the last 12 years they have defied the police in their riots against authority.

Their motives mix discontent about the inefficiencies of Spanish universities with general dissatisfaction with the regime. Perhaps only a small group of activists lead each riot. But it is worth noting that university men who have joined in these fist-shaking occasions in their time are now widely dispersed into more important positions in Spanish life.

Guarding the interests of the right-wing will be Franco's ministers and lieutenants and their dependants throughout the bureaucratic machine. They will diehard backing from the Church and from those areas in the north and Old Castile which are fanatical in their anti-communism.

From their influential ringsides the proud and independent Basques and the Catalans will both certainly use any changeover to a quiet and stable succession. Still, one cannot entirely dismiss informants who insist that under their bland, car-loving, home-loving exteriors these middle-class people are also tired of an authoritarian regime. "They want to be allowed to grow up," said one lawyer forcefully to me. "To read more than half-truths in the press, to see some of our bureaucratic cobwebs blown away . . ."

The Candidate Who Isn't

From Ottawa

Lionel Laframboise plunked his spoon into a bowl of vegetable soup.

"You're telling me my name is not on the ballot?" he asked the reporter.

"That's right," was the reply.

"Okay, I'll call my lawyer." In rather sharp contrast to some other candidates for the Liberal party leadership, Mr. Laframboise was holding a press conference at a table for four in a hotel coffee shop Thursday.

No brass band, no miniskirted teen-agers decked out in distinctive colors, no platoons of publicity people, no lavish hotel "hospitality suite."

There was even one vacant seat at the table. Just Mr. Laframboise, a 52-year-old mining development promoter from Elliott Lake, Ont., a lady campaign worker and one reporter.

Mr. Laframboise, short and chunky and wearing a sort of electric green suit, said he thought "everything was okay" as far as his candidacy was concerned when he left the Civic Centre, scene of the leadership convention, after an appearance close to the Wednesday noon deadline for submitting his name.

"We had a good time last night. And I spent from 10 to 11 this morning here in the coffee shop pouring buttermilk for everyone. I'd only had about two hours sleep."

Turning back to the reporter, he said he had financed his whole campaign off.

They sang him a Winters campaign song but said they had to leave to join in a lobby demonstration. "Winters well away by spring," Mr. Laframboise said as they tripped off.

"Then I was held up on the elevator a bit and took some time to get a taxi."

"But I made it to the convention on time and they wouldn't let me in. They said they had other people there to register."

Three teen-age girls came into the coffee shop dressed in Robert Winters green. Mr. Laframboise waved them over and invited them to join him in his 4 p.m. lunch.

They sang him a Winters campaign song but said they had to leave to join in a lobby demonstration. "Winters well away by spring," Mr. Laframboise said as they tripped off.

At this point, a waiter arrived at the table with a $60 bill for the morning's buttermilk. Mr. Laframboise maintained it should be $30.

After some debate, the waiter agreed to take the matter to the hotel manager.

"I'm checking out April 7 to go to Toronto," Mr. Laframboise advised him.

"That bill should be for $30. See my lawyer."

Hanoi Grabs Chance of Setting Own Terms?

Vietnam Peace Outlook Brightens

By HAROLD MORRISON, from London

Hanoi's speedy response to President Johnson's dramatic peace bid suggests the North Vietnamese see the possibility of a settlement on their terms within their grasp.

Some experts suggest also the response is designed to recapture world goodwill which swung towards Johnson following his decision to sacrifice his own powerful position for the sake of peace.

Whatever agreements may be reached within the next few weeks, the prospect of a negotiated settlement is still some distance away. Nevertheless, the experts agree the peace outlook at the moment is brighter than at any time since the failure of the 1954 Geneva pact.

* * *

They also agree peace would place in question the future of the American policy of Communist containment in Asia, a policy that has been shown to be weak and unworkable in the southeastern peninsula.

The prospect of peace raises the question of whether the United States will turn its back on Asia and whether the domino theory — that one democratic country after another will collapse — will be allowed to prove its worth.

This theory has often been accompanied by another — that the Communists are out to conquer the world. This now has been tempered by the reality of the Sino-Soviet split and the East European situation where old-style communism is gradually disintegrating.

While the U.S. has been attempting to beat back the Communists in Vietnam, sacrificing men and money and the very unity of the U.S. itself, one East European country — Czechoslovakia — has been undergoing a virtual revolution, divesting itself of old hard-liners without the apparent help of the U.S. or any other Western country.

Expanded foreign economic aid may in fact crown the U.S. with more success than the fruitless search for an illusive military victory that carries with it no guarantee of a lasting democratic society.

* * *

That doesn't mean the same thing will happen in Southeast Asia, nor is it likely that Johnson will make any fast retreat from Vietnam. For the sake of prestige, the Americans cannot accept the appearance of being beaten.

MLAs Stand as One In Silent Tribute

The B.C. legislature went on record Thursday night expressing deep regret at the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King at Memphis, Tenn.

Premier Bennett proposed the resolution, seconded by Gordon Dowling (NDP—Surnaby Edmonds), which extended condolences of the members to Dr. King's family and the people of the United States.

Members stood silently in unanimous support of the motion which said the civil rights leader was a dedicated American whose contributions to peace and renewed dignity of man will be long remembered in the hearts of his fellow citizens."

Floyd McKissick, national director of CORE, said that with

Dr. King's death, non-violence "now is a dead philosophy."

"This is racism in the most extreme form; it is truly American racism," McKissick said. "We make no predictions, but mark my word, black Americans of all sorts and beliefs loved Martin Luther King."

Senator Robert F. Kennedy described King as a man who "dedicated his life to love and justice and died in that effort."

The Democratic presidential candidate cut short a scheduled political rally in Indianapolis' Negro section after breaking the news of the assassination to 2,500 supporters gathered to hear him speak.

Kennedy spoke to the crowd for about two minutes and then said: "I ask you to return home and say a prayer for Martin Luther King's family and a prayer for America."

FOR 10 YEARS

King began his nonviolent movement—which became known merely as "the movement"—in Montgomery 10 years ago, when a Negro woman grew tired of riding in the back of the bus.

He organized and led the Montgomery bus boycott, but perhaps the biggest demonstration he ever led was the Selma-to-Montgomery march, launched after Sheriff Jim Clark's deputies thundered on horseback into King's demonstrators in the little town of Selma, Ala.

Clark, who failed to be re-elected sheriff, said Thursday night that King was "a man of violence who died by violence."

Paul Hess, assistant administrator at St. Joseph's Hospital, said King "received a gunshot wound on the right side of the neck, at the root of the neck, a gaping wound. He was pronounced dead at 5:05 p.m. PST by staff doctors."

EVERYTHING POSSIBLE

"They did everything humanly possible," Hess said. "I cannot tell you who attended Dr. King, but it was more than one doctor."

Chief Holloman said King apparently said nothing during the hour he lived after the shot struck him.

"The shooting occurred in a flophouse, a two-story building at 424 South Main," Holloman said. He said the upper windows faced King's motel room.

SCOPE SIGHT

"We know the shot was fired from there," he said. A high-powered rifle with a scope "thought to be in the .30 calibre series was found with a suitcase at the front door," he said.

Holloman said the murder weapon was being rushed to the FBI in Washington.

A pool of blood sprawled two feet across the balcony where King fell.

Seaway Start Week Early

Ottawa (CP) — The Montreal to Lake Ontario section of the St. Lawrence Seaway will open for daylight navigation Monday, the seaway authority announced. This is one week earlier than the scheduled date.

Favorable weather conditions were cited as the reason.

Budget Steps May Change

By A. H. MURPHY

A proposal to streamline budget-cutting and reduce the annual blood-letting ritual from three weeks or more to less than a week will be presented to city council before the year's end.

Mayor Hugh Stephen, after reviewing the whole budget procedure with City Manager Dennis Young and Treasurer James Bramley, said Thursday there must be a "more meaningful" way of paring spending forecasts and preparing a final statement from which a mill rate could be set.

Stephen Donates

Mayor Hugh Stephen agreed Thursday to donate blood when the Red Cross holds its Mayors and Reeves donor clinic April 16.

He agreed to a request from drive chairman Major Robert Hogarth to give a pint to start the special clinic, and said he hoped leaders from Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay would follow his example.

By City

Officers' Bid Refused

A request for $70 to help finance a June luncheon for the Naval Officers Association of Vancouver Island was refused Thursday by the civic finance committee.

At the same meeting a bid from the Greater Victoria Boys' Band for a grant was deferred until a meeting of city council. The mayor said he would sound out adjacent municipalities with a view to their sharing. The city gave $200 last year.

Speaking about the naval officers' request, Ald. Robert Baird said he was sure refusal would not mean hardship for the gathering.

'NOT SO WELL'

"We haven't done so well with the budget this year, and I think we should confine our spending to essential services," he said.

A suggestion from the provincial government department of travel got a better reception.

Aldermen agreed to hold a reception for 30 European and 30 United States travel agents who will be here for six days in May. Aldermen felt the city got a valuable return in tourist business from the periodic visits of agents.

Working with only a provisional budget as guidance, and estimates which are not final, the mayor said that under the present system the financial statement was being prepared "in a vacuum."

If council accepted his recommendations, the mayor added, committee chairman would play a more important role.

As it is now, each department head prepares estimates and then faces a city council committee to justify his proposals. After the departmental estimates are combed over in committee, they are scrutinized by members of the whole city council for the final hatchet work.

NEW PLAN

It means hours are spent as forecasts are gone over item by item on two occasions.

Under the new plan, estimates will be prepared by the department head, the chairman of the committee involved, the city manager and the city treasurer.

It will mean a good part of the fat will be removed before estimates come under the final scrutiny of all members of council.

Mr. Young said Thursday the new system would not remove any powers from members of council, but would present them with figures and readily understood advice, all contained in a pre-trimmed statement.

MILL RATE

From this a preliminary budget and mill rate could be readily prepared and city council could decide whether it was to be sustained or otherwise, he said.

Meanwhile, in more than a week of budget-cutting, aldermen have managed to cut less than $500,000. Much more will have to be pared if the tax level is to be held anywhere near the 1967 level.

Education Control

Cost Formula Under Fire

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's new education finance formula under consideration by the provincial legislature puts too much power in the hands of Education Minister Leslie Peterson, Robert Buzz, president of the B.C. Teachers' Federation, said Thursday.

"The teachers' main objection to the new formula is that it puts too much power in the hands of one man—the Minister of Education," he said.

ABSOLUTE POWER

"The minister now has the final say on how much money should be spent on education in this province in any given year. Percentages outlined in the new formula are meaningless because the minister has absolute control over what the cost of the basic education program will be."

The formula, when first announced, provided that the aggregate cost of the basic education program must not exceed 90 per cent of all approved expenditures for the previous year.

ASK TAXPAYERS

School boards would have authority to impose additional local taxes to exceed the basic program by 10 per cent. If more money was required, boards would have to get permission from the local council or place a referendum before taxpayers.

Under amendments announced Tuesday, the 90 per cent figure was boosted to 95 per cent. A referendum for additional money does not have to be placed before taxpayers unless 100 tax-payers or five per cent of a district's voters petition for a referendum.

TRANSFUSION NEEDED

Mr. Buzz described the formula as "blood-letting when a blood transfusion is needed."

"I find it difficult to understand why any changes were made at all," he said. "The minister lauded the old formula just this week as being model legislation yet he is prepared to throw it out for new legislation about which both teachers and trustees have strong misgivings."

The proposed arrangement is inconsistent "since the amount of basic education is, in effect, in the mind of the minister and not contained in an act or regulation of the legislature."

IMPERFECT

Mr. Buzz said the amendments don't go far enough and are "just patching an imperfect piece of legislation" which the government should throw out.

Superport Meeting Monday

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, chairman of the new B.C. harbors board, Thursday confirmed Ottawa and B.C. representatives will meet at Ladner Monday to discuss development of the proposed Roberts Bank superport.

It will be the first direct meeting on the proposal and Mr. Bonner said one detail the meeting likely will work out is how much land will be needed for completion of the first stage by Jan. 1, 1970.

B.C. Will Invest in Canadian Banks

B.C. will buy non-voting shares in Canadian chartered banks because they are a good investment, Premier Bennett told the legislature Thursday.

He was speaking during debate which ended with the House giving third reading to a bill which permitted investment of government-administered pension funds in bank shares.

Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay) and David Barrett (NDP—Coquihalla) both charged the authority was merely to give the government power to invest in the fledgling Bank of B.C.

"I'm opposed to any attempt by this government to go through the back door to invest public funds in a private bank," Mr. Barrett said.

The NDP originally supported government ownership of shares in the Bank of B.C., Mr. Barrett added, but since Ottawa lacked foresight and was foolish enough to ban this practice, the party now could not support what amounts to special treatment for one firm.

He charged B.C. Bank shares were selling at $18.50 before the bill under discussion was introduced earlier in the session, immediately thereafter jumped to $20 and now stand at $21.

"In anticipation of this bill, NDP had supported government funds should be placed in this ownership of shares in what had always been a private venture."

"The banks of this country are a very good investment and now the ceiling has been taken off it will be very profitable—a good investment for our pension funds," the premier said.

Efficiency Fight

HANEY (CP)—Some 450 workers returned to their jobs at a nearby plywood mill, ending a week-long walkout over the presence of efficiency experts.

With the lack of success of the Bank of Western Canada, he said, "I don't think pension

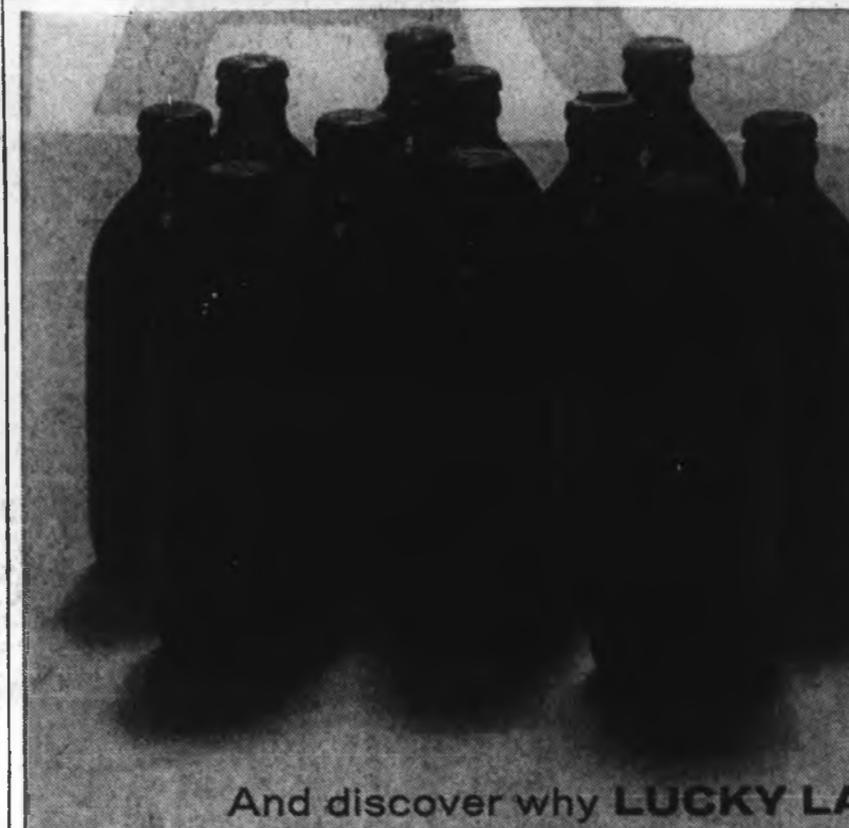

The federal government recently changed the Bank Act to allow provincial governments to invest in non-voting shares of chartered banks up to a maximum of 10 per cent.

Coast Guard Winning Battle for Lighthouse

BY MARK DICKINSON

The Canadian Coast Guard is winning in its battle to erect a lighthouse on an island off the west coast of Vancouver Island. This week, crews finally managed to complete a major part of the work in putting a glass-fibre-reinforced plastic lighthouse on Solander Island, a 300-foot-high rock that lies off Cape Cook.

Two previous attempts had been foiled by high winds, preventing helicopters from landing on the island's tiny summit.

But on the third trip, crews laid the base for the lighthouse and half completed a cement helicopter landing pad.

The job is expected to be finished in about two weeks, when the CCG icebreaker Cam-sell returns to the island.

Camsell was forced to abandon the project Tuesday when crews ran out of construction material. On her next trip north, she will carry a second,

A rotating lamp is worth $5,000 and is turned on at night by a photo-electric cell.

B.C. Hydro Could Escape Tax

It will be possible to remove B.C. Hydro properties from the tax rolls of any school districts by order-in-council under a bill which passed second reading in the legislature Thursday.

The legislation was part of Bill 116, an act to amend and repeal certain provisions of the Statute Law.

Oil Drill Nears Sandspit

The semi-submersible drilling rig, SEDCO 135-F, is nearing its new location.

The VMD-built vessel is expected to reach her new station near Sandspit on the east coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands Saturday or Sunday.

The rig left Barkley Sound five days ago after spending 10 months drilling four wildcat wells 12 to 20 miles off Vancouver Island's west coast Long Beach. The distance to the new location is about 400 miles.

Humphrey Hints As Unions Mount Support

From UPI

Buoyed by cheers at a labor convention in Pittsburgh, Vice-President Hubert Humphrey almost announced Thursday he would seek the presidency of the U.S.

Introduced at a convention of the Pennsylvania AFL-CIO at the Pittsburgh Hilton hotel as "the next president of the United States," the vice-president grinned through a four-minute standing ovation, then said:

LITTLE LONGER

"I like your company. If we just stick together a little longer, we're going to be together a lot longer."

When told Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz had endorsed him as the Democratic presidential candidate, Humphrey said: "Wonderful. He's a good man with good judgment. I appreciate it."

TOP PRO

In Washington, a top Democratic professional said it was inconceivable a member of the cabinet would announce a preference for Humphrey without first clearing it with President Johnson — unless he wanted to leave the cabinet.

In Miami Beach, a convention of the 350,000-member International Union of Operating Engineers unanimously passed a motion urging Humphrey to become an active candidate. President L.W. Abel of the United Steelworkers union also endorsed Humphrey.

MUM ON PLANS

But Humphrey said in Pittsburgh he would make no formal announcement of his political plans until President Johnson returned from Honolulu.

Other developments:

• Johnson: Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) said the president might be drafted at the Democratic convention if there was a breakthrough in Vietnam peace talks.

• Sen. Eugene McCarthy:

Auto Union Halts Talks

TORONTO (CP) — Contract negotiations between the United Auto Workers and the Ford Motor Co. of Canada were halted Thursday when the UAW announced it will not resume talks until all workers return to their jobs.

In a telegram to all stricken locals, George Burt, Canadian director of the UAW, said the wildcat strike at Ford's operations in Oakville, St. Thomas, Windsor and Brampton, Ont., endangered the negotiations.

The strike started when day-shift workers in Oakville walked off the job Wednesday afternoon to protest the postponement of a strike deadline from 10:30 a.m. Thursday to 10:30 Monday.

The walkout involves 5,646 workers at the company's Oakville plant, 4,177 in Windsor and 1,033 in St. Thomas.

In Niagara Falls, Ont., 230 workers at the company's glass fabricating plant remained on their jobs, as did 200 employees in the company's parts depots across Canada.

At Canadian Admiral we're so confident about the quality of our Color TV that effective today we're extending the warranty on our color picture tubes to three full years. And this warranty is good anywhere in Canada.

For example, if you purchase an Admiral Color TV set in Newfoundland and move to British Columbia, the extended warranty on the picture tube will be valid for the three-year period.

How can Admiral take this unprecedented step? Our advanced technology, precision manufacturing methods and greater automation, have enabled us to establish new standards of quality.

Result: When you buy an Admiral precision-built Color TV set, you are assured of getting the finest color picture tube possible to manufacture—a tube of such high quality and reliability that Admiral can back it in writing for three full years.

This new warranty is the first real breakthrough in color TV—the kind of breakthrough you'd expect from a leader like Admiral.

In short, Admiral has taken the worry out of color TV. And this worry-free color TV is at your Admiral dealer's right now. Choose from a wide selection of handsomely styled portable, console, stereo theatre and Sonar remote control models in a variety of screen sizes.

Admiral Color TV Picture Tube Warranty

The picture tube in each new Admiral color television set is warranted to the original owner to be free from defects for 3 years after date of purchase. During this period, Admiral will supply a replacement tube in exchange for the defective tube without charge. Service and installation costs are to be paid by the owner. Provided an Admiral replacement tube is used, it will be warranted for the unexpired portion of the original 3-year warranty. To be effective, the warranty must be registered by mailing the warranty card accompanying the set to Admiral within 3 days after delivery.

This warranty applies to all Admiral Color TV sets manufactured since January 1, 1968 when sold through a participating Authorized Admiral Dealer. See him for details.

Market Pundits Discover Dow Jones Too Finicky

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Stock market analysts who have to make up their "copy" several days before their words reach their subscribers should be pretty careful not to express themselves too forcibly. The market is no respecter of seers and prophets.

Take the sad case of the Alexander Hamilton Institute of New York, which in a dated release for April said, "Investors should keep in mind that the major market trend is down and probably will continue that way at least for the next few months."

At that time, the Dow Jones industrial average was 840.85. Three sessions later it had risen 31.85 points to 872.52.

PGE OPENS THROTTLE

Pacific Great Eastern Railway had a record year in 1968 making a net profit for the first time in history.

This year it hopes to do even better and for the first quarter J. S. Broadbent, general manager, announced the trend was favorable with vanloading up 10 per cent over a year ago at 22,085 against 20,026 in the first quarter of 1967.

Movement of logs, lumber, wood chips, petroleum products and wood pulp were chiefly responsible for the increase.

GOLD TRADING RESUMED

Gold trading in Canada has been resumed after a trading suspension which lasted two weeks.

Finance Minister Sharp said that in addition to lifting the restraints on individual gold transactions, Canadian gold producers would continue to have the option to sell gold to the mint or in the open market. He added however that only those who sold to the mint at $35 (U.S.) an ounce would qualify for Emergency Gold Mining Assistance which pays up to $10.25 an ounce to those who cannot produce gold at a profit.

Mr. Sharp said gold offered to the mint would be sold in the free market for the time being.

DIVIDEND RAISED

Net profits of Rank Organization, after U.K. taxes, for the 28 weeks period ended Jan. 13 were $3,420,000, an increase of 30 per cent over $2,604,000 in the corresponding period a year earlier.

The interim dividend has been increased to 9½ per cent from 9 per cent.

Sales and earnings from Rank-Xerox were continuing to make massive growth, according to a company report.

UNWISE TO EXPAND

Zinc producers have been warned "it would be extremely unwise to expand smelter capacity any further."

The words came from R. A. Young, chairman of American Zinc Co. at a meeting of the effect.

L. G. Greenwood has been appointed president of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in succession to W. M. Currie, who has held the post for the past three years.

Greenwood was formerly chief general manager, and in his new capacity he will have leading executive responsibilities for the bank.

Currie has been appointed Vice Chairman of the board and has been posted to Vancouver where he will assume leadership of the board in B.C.

Gordon R. Sharwood becomes chief general manager in succession to Greenwood.

DECLINE EXPECTED

Trans Mountain is anticipating a decline of 12 per cent in business during 1968 in contrast to record deliveries made in 1967.

E. C. Hurd president said the middle east crisis made 1967 a boom year for Trans Mountain. This year the Pacific Northwest has a new source of supply from Alaska.

Hurd said the new oil would have an effect on Trans Mountain exports for a few years, although the local market growth would have an offsetting

MR. GREENWOOD

MR. SHARWOOD

MR. FULLERTON

Mr. N. J. McKinnon, Chairman, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, has announced the following:

Mr. W. M. Currie has been elected Vice-Chairman of the Board of Directors and will take up residence in Vancouver. Mr. Currie, formerly President, is a native of Medicine Hat, Alberta and has had long and varied experience with the Bank both in Canada and abroad. Prior to his appointment as President in December 1964, he served as Chief General Manager from May 1963.

Mr. L. G. Greenwood has been elected President of the Bank. Mr. Greenwood, a native of Saskatchewan, was appointed Chief General Manager in December 1964 and was elected a Director in November 1967. Previously he was Regional General Manager—International, and of Ontario Central Region; and Manager of the Bank's main office in Toronto and of the Seattle branch.

Mr. Gordon R. Sharwood, formerly a Deputy Chief General Manager, has been appointed Chief General Manager. Mr. Sharwood, a native of Montreal, has served in the Bank's principal offices in Montreal, Hamilton, Vancouver and New York City. He was appointed Regional General Manager—Ontario Central in May 1963 and Deputy Chief General Manager in November 1965.

Mr. R. Donald Fullerton has been appointed a Deputy Chief General Manager. Mr. Fullerton, formerly Regional General Manager—International, is a native of Toronto. He served in various capacities in Toronto, Vancouver and New York City and was appointed Regional General Manager—Saskatchewan in November 1965. He became Regional General Manager—International in June 1967.

FORD'S NEW ECONOLINE

Breakthru in van design!

CHECK THESE BETTER IDEAS!

NOW 23% MORE CLEAR FLOORSPACE

No matter how you measure them, Ford SuperVans give you more usable space than any other van. The engine has been moved forward 22 inches, out of the load area and out of the way of the driver. Now there's a clear walk-thru area to the back for easy load handling. Ford Econoline Vans now provide more than 8½ feet clear load length; SuperVans more than 10 feet.

Now Econolines give you the front suspension made famous in Ford pickups. Ford's exclusive Twin-I-beam design has two front axles, one for each wheel. Each wheel steps over the bumps independently. This independence reduces transfer of jolts and jars from one wheel to the other. Each front axle is a forged steel I-beam anchored to the frame by a rugged I-beam radius rod. The new suspension has coil springs, too, that make over-corduroy roads velvet smooth.

NEW OUTSIDE SERVICE CENTRE

Just lift the hood below the windshield (a single latch releases it) to check oil, water, battery, voltage regulator, windshield wiper motor, windshield washer reservoir and master brake cylinder. Everything is in one convenient place—easy to reach, hard to overlook.

NEW WIDE-TREAD HANDLING AND STABILITY

If you don't like being pushed around by a cross-wind, you'll love the new Ford Econolines. Up to 7-inch wider track provides a new kind of road stability. Add Twin-I-beam front suspension and longer wheelbase and you can't beat these Ford Vans for steadfastness. Because front wheels can turn sharply, these vans maneuver quickly and easily.

NEW 302 CU. IN. V-8

The new optional 205 hp. V-8 provides spirited performance for all the Econoline Van Series. This new V-8 incorporates all the features that have made Ford the leader in V-8 truck engines. For outstanding economy Ford offers the 100 hp. or the 150 hp. sizes. All Ford engines have a thermostatically controlled air intake system for even greater economy.

THREE NEW SERIES, E-100, E-200 and E-300, each totally engineered for payloads up to 1285, 1725 and 3540 lbs. Econolines are built stronger all around! The unitized body and frame are constructed of heavy gauge steel. The main frame rails on all models have been beefed-up. The gauge of the steel on long wheelbase models is heavier and is double thick on the big E-300! Bigger brakes with heavy-duty lining on E-200 and E-300 models. Higher capacity front and rear axles. Longer rear leaf springs. And, of course, with three series (with progressively higher payloads) Econoline owners can choose just the right van for the job to be done. Your Ford or Mercury Dealer has the whole story!

Blues, Kings Lead in West

Homecoming for the Philadelphia Flyers proved to be a flop Thursday as St. Louis Blues blanked the punchless Eastern Division champions, 1-0, before 10,469 fans in the opening game of the best-of-seven National Hockey League quarter-final series.

The Los Angeles Kings took a 1-0 lead in the other expansion division series by defeating Minnesota North Stars, 2-1, before 7,847 fans at Los Angeles.

Flyers, who played most of their home games during March in Quebec City after sections of the roof fell in at the new Philadelphia Spectrum, were shut out for the third time in their last five games, twice by the Blues.

Philadelphia managed only 14 shots on the St. Louis net while Blues fired 33 shots at Bernie Parent, winning the game when Jim Roberts scored from 12 feet out with just less than six minutes remaining in the final period.

The game was a strictly defensive battle as Flyers have now managed only six goals in their last six games. The ice was extremely soft and puddles formed at different stages.

OUTSHOT STARS

Bill White's goal at 3:13 of the final period proved to be the winner as Los Angeles outshot the visitors, 40-31. Dave Balon beat goalie Terry Sawchuk 41 seconds later to bring the North Stars to within one goal, but the veteran goalie, who was playing his 96th playoff game, was unbeatable the rest of the game.

Ed Joyal Kings' leading scorer, gave Los Angeles a 1-0 lead just before the end of the second period.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

The herring spawning season is pretty well over and those anglers, especially Tod Inlet fishermen who have got used to taking springs in the herring spawning areas on rather light tackle for those waters, will have to start thinking deep.

Instead of from 12 ounces and nylon line, to 100 and 150 feet of wire line and planer, in Tod Inlet they will now have to think of 200 to 250 feet of wire line in Coler Bay and from Henderson Point, opposite Sananus Island to Indian Bay, and in Flinlayson Arm at great depths from the Narrows to Goldstream Island.

The herring have moved out of Tod Inlet and the springs seem to have followed them into deeper waters, but there still seems to be plenty of bait and bird action at the bottom end of the Inlet in Flinlayson Arm, from the Narrows to the Island.

There has also been bird action between Sananus Island and the sparrows at Coles Bay and the grilse have been active on the surface, apparently feasting on small shrimp. They have been hard to catch but some have been taken on the incoming afternoon tides on red flies, Kamkures, abalone spoons and Krippled K spoons with one red side.

Big mystery seems to be where the abundance of grilse, which were concentrated from Oak Bay to Victoria waterfront, have gone. They haven't shown at Pender Bay as they did about this time last year. Oak Bay has been spotty for springs, but a fresh run of big springs hit Pender Bay this week.

On Tuesday, Dennis Ryens got a 20-pounder on Herring Magic and on Wednesday Henry Rollin got a 20-pounder, a 12-pounder, and two six pounders on Strip-Teaser. Between the Race and Bentinck Island is the productive spot.

* * *

Cowichan Bay is producing few springs with Geoff Pool's 16½-pounder, with 15 ounces of weight, 100 feet of line and herring, off the Bluffs at the weekend, among the biggest. The springs are in Sansum Narrows, but very deep. Limits of grilse are being taken off Bear Point at Chemainus on Henry Smith spoons and springs are reported in Ladysmith Harbor.

Nanaimo waters are reported good for grilse and Gerta Shulz and Barry Shelton report good grilse fishing and the occasional spring off Claytons from Mistaken Islands to the Gerald Island. Grilse are being taken on four to eight ounces of weight and red lures.

* * *

There is still steelheading in most rivers, but interest is turning to trout, which should hit an explosion as soon as we get a few days of warm weather.

Meanwhile, there is some fairly good trout fishing to be had. Shawinigan appears the best for fly fisherman.

Fairy Lake has been producing. Chemainus has been fair for steelhead and 11-year-old Ted Carberry got his first steelhead this week—a 4½-pound fresh March run—from the lower reaches of the Cowichan. E. Barclay picked up a nine-pounder in the Riverbottom area of Cowichan River on a red-bodied fly and Brad Taylor picked up a 17-pound spring salmon underneath the Cowichan River railway bridge in the lower reaches on Spin 'n' Glo.

Peter Edwards reports trollers in Cowichan Lake with gang troll and small spoon, 1½ ounces of weight, working 100 feet to 200 feet from shore (not close-in) have been meeting with good success, and so have bait fishermen at creek mouths. Qualicum Lake has been producing and so have creeks in that area.

Nanaimo River has been fair for steelhead. Brannan Lake is producing trout. Murray Cree reports steelhead and trout in Englishman, Little Qualicum and Big Qualicum. The Browns River run of steelhead has entered the Punderline and the Oyster has been quite good.

Bobber and bottom fishermen are taking trout at Miller Creek and Mervor Lake in Lower Campbell and in the smaller lakes like Gooseneck, Snakehead, Beavertail and Cedar Lake in the Sayward Forest area.

* * *

Sooke Oyster farmers were upset with our Sunday story which listed Sooke basin oysters as "not recommended." Harry Helgason asked that we point out the difference between Sooke Basin, where there is a sawmill and Sooke Harbor, which has been given a clean bill of health, and is where the Sooke growers have their leases now. There are two separate bodies of water, separated by Billing's (or Jackson's) Spit. But there is no public oyster beach in Sooke Harbor.

There will be two big shoots in the Lower Island area this weekend.

South Vancouver Island Rangers will hold a ham and bacon shoot at its Luxton Road grounds Sunday, 10 a.m. until dusk.

Two electric traps will be in operation, along with running deer target shooting and lucky circles.

North Saanich Rod and Gun Club will hold a turkey shoot at its McTavish Road (across the street from the golf course) range complex Sunday, starting at 10 a.m.

There will also be regular rifle shooting events, trap shooting, running deer targets, skill targets, a black powder bullet splitting contest and other events.

Cooke's Comments Disappoint Campbell

MONTREAL (CP)—Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, says he is disappointed in

Jack Kent Cooke, owner of Los Angeles Kings, for his claim that the Kings were "bilked" of a victory over the Oakland Seals Saturday.

"It is disappointing to find that a spokesman of Mr. Cooke's stature would descend to excusing his team's failure... by using that hoary old alibi 'we wuz robbed,'" Campbell said in a statement Wednesday night.

He was replying to remarks made in Los Angeles Tuesday by Cooke, who said a referee's inexperience cost his club a first-place finish in the NHL's west division.

"Mr. Cooke has stated that the referee erred in his call disallowing the goal," Campbell said. "This is his opinion. I have only the referee's version of the incident, which supports his decision."

"However I will be in Los Angeles on Saturday and I will review the game films myself and make my own assessment."

Richard Williams, 26, joins the Lions after four years of semi-pro ball in South Carolina. The 5-10, 190-pound prospect runs the 100-yard dash in 9.4 and is the brother of former world record sprint specialist Willie Williams.

Richard Williams, 25, and a 6-2, 245-pound guard and linebacker, earned Junior College All-American status at Santa Barbara Junior College in 1964 and later played for Parsons College.

"That represents a possible 75 points, any one of which would have accomplished his objective. Instead he chooses to blame the team's failure to come first on a referee's judgment call in the final period of the season."

Enforced Peace Urged In Track War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, failing to make peace by persuasion, is being asked to write into law an enforced end to the track war between the country's colleges and the Amateur Athletic Union.

Senator Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) announced Thursday the Senate Commerce Committee, which he heads, will meet as soon as possible to "consider alternatives which are obviously necessary."

Magnuson said he was "absolutely astounded" that the National Collegiate Athletic Association and its ally, the U.S. Track and Field Federation, had turned down the peace pact proposed by a Senate-created arbitration panel.

THREE PATHS OPEN

Three paths to enforced peace are open to Congress:

—Magnuson has threatened to build legislation around the settlement spurned by the colleges Wednesday. This would leave the AAU in control of off-campus competition and require

Future Doubtful

Vision in the left eye of Boston Red Sox outfielder Tony Conigliaro, 23, is deteriorating. Sox officials said Thursday following a new medical examination by doctors. Conigliaro, shown leaving hospital Thursday, suffered a cracked cheekbone and eye injury last Aug. 18, when struck by a pitch. The young slugger's "baseball future . . . is very doubtful", team officials said.

STRENGTHENED

The USTFF has called for a Justice Department antitrust investigation of the AAU. Its president, the Rev. Wildred H. Crowley, has vowed to carry the dispute to court if the Justice Department doesn't.

Although the colleges have agreed to a truce until after the 1968 Olympics, Congress will be under pressure to shape a permanent peace before the Oct. 12-27 Games in Mexico City.

Minor Hoop Titles At Stake Saturday

Combined Vancouver Island and British Columbia pre-midget boys' and girls' basketball championships will take place Saturday at Victoria High School starting at 10 a.m.

Esquimalt Teamsters are the defending B.C. champions for the boys while First United Aces are the girls B.C. champions.

Each game will be played in four six-minute quarters and the event will be a single-knockout tournament. The girls championship game will be played at 6:30 p.m., while the boys' final will start at 7:30.

Imperials Snatch Rolloff

Imperial Centre won an exciting rolloff in the Men's Commercial Fivepin League at Gibson's Recreations Wednesday night, edging out Clark and Patterson, 5,105 to 5,096 when Doug Mann and Stan Bell, the last two bowlers, both came up with a 43-point count in the 10th frame.

Mann finished with 939 and Bell with 954 for the four-game playoff but their winning finish was made possible by Walter Creed, who accounted for 1,201 points, 890 of them in the first three games.

Gordie Smith and Bill Smith Jr., contributed 993 and 867, respectively, to complete a scratch total of 4,954 for the winners, who had a team handicap of 151.

Casper and Boros

BEST OF THE REST

Billy Casper signalled his return to the professional golf tour with an eight-birdie blast to shoot a six-under-par 65 Thursday and tie veteran campaigner Julius Boros for the first-round lead in the $137,500 Greater Greensboro Open.

Casper and Boros, each a two-time U.S. Open champion and former winner here, held a one-stroke lead over Lanny Al Geiberger, who shot 32-34-66.

HOT BACK NINES

Casper shot a five-under-par 30, equaling the year's tour record low-nine-hole score, in starting on the 10th tee of the 7,034-yard Sedgefield Country Club course.

It was Casper's first tournament in almost two months.

Boros laid down a five-birdie barrage and an eagle. He also began on the back nine, shooting 31.

SHARE FOURTH PLACE

Rookie California pro Bob E. Smith, Terry Dill and Joe Campbell shot 67s to share fourth place. Smith lost a chance to tie for third when he three-putted the 17th hole for his only one-over par of an otherwise strong putting round.

Wilf Homenick of Winnipeg combined rounds of 37-38 for a 75 which he shared with 12 others.

Island Pioneer Dies at 99

A link with Vancouver Island's Pioneer history has been broken with the death of Mrs. Henry Wood, the former Corilla Jane Ellen Gwynne.

Mrs. Wood, 1360 Grant Street, died last week in Victoria at 99. Funeral services were held Tuesday.

She was born in Kansas City, Mo., and came to Salt Spring Island in 1873. She was married there in 1886 to Henry James Wood, who died in March, 1937.

Mrs. Wood lived on Salt Spring Island until 1928 when she came to Victoria.

She is survived by three sons, Henry and Edward of Victoria, and Phillip of Vancouver; daughters, Mrs. Alma Whims and Mrs. Robert Moore, both of Vancouver, and Mrs. A. E. Pendray, Lena Wood and Mrs. Isma Forges, all of Victoria.

She is also survived by 18 grandchildren, 35 great-grandchildren, and 10 great-great-grandchildren.

Rev. E. B. Seymour officiated at Tuesday's services, which were followed by interment in Royal Oak Burial Park.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Federation of Labor will continue its fight against the controversial Bill 33 despite its passage by the Legislature Wednesday night, a spokesman said Thursday.

"We knew from the start that with the government's majority in the House we could not stop it there, but we think we can get it removed, perhaps by getting the legislators who passed it removed," said Clive Lytle.

The bill provides for compulsory arbitration in certain labor disputes.

Mr. Lytle said the federation's voluntary collection for the "beat Bill 33 fund" has raised more than $10,000. Unions now are considering assessing their memberships to raise more money.

She said members of local 1 of the Bricklayers, Masons and Terrazzo Workers International Union and local 3 of the Tilesetters International Union have voted to assess themselves one hour's pay for the fund.

The federation has planned a public protest rally for Sunday afternoon.

Bob Fleming, business agent for local 1, said, "This legislation is particularly ominous to the building trades' unions, and it may well interfere with our long-cherished right to refuse to work with non-union labor."

The bill provides penalties against unions, companies or individuals who ignore the commission's orders to return to work or end a lockout.

Spinning Car Kills Girls

BURNABY (CP) — Two teenage girls were killed Thursday when hit by a car while walking to school.

Police said Debra Lee Vaughan, 14, and Dianne Lynn Pastore, 15, were hit by a car that spun out of control down a hill after it was in collision with another car at a nearby intersection.

Three Children Killed

Driver Faces Trial

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Rudolph Scholten was committed for trial following a preliminary hearing in magistrate's court Thursday on a charge of criminal negligence laid after three children died in a sledging accident Dec. 31.

Scholten was charged after the children, two of them his own, died when their makeshift sled was hit by a truck as it was towed by a pickup truck the accused was driving.

Killed were his daughters Tina Rae, 9, and Kelly Donalda, 6, and Dwight Zingle, 10. Shannon Laurie Zingle, the other child on the upturned car hood being used as a sled, was unhurt.

Magistrate Harold Kenny said defense arguments were "weighty and substantial" but should be addressed to a jury.

Sandra Lynn Zingle, 14, who was riding in the cab of the truck driven by Scholten, said she was keeping an eye on the sled and watching for other vehicles.

"I could see the kids out of the back window," she testified. "They were on the wrong side of the road."

"I turned around and yelled out the window that a truck was coming."

She said she could see the driver of the other truck come by and hit the children on the sled but "I couldn't see them after he hit them."

* * *

R.C.M.P. Constable Edward Olert said he would not have laid the negligence charge which was laid by the attorney-general's department.

"They very often overrule the local investigators," he said.

* * *

Another witness said the Scholten truck was going about three or four miles an hour and the sled "was pretty well directly behind the truck."

'Mr. Hitler' Uproar Costs Editor $35

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Dan McLeod, 24, editor of the hippie newspaper Georgia Straight, Thursday was fined $35 for creating a disturbance last February in a restaurant after police seized 45 copies.

McLeod said, "After the officer grabbed me I started shouting 'Sieg heil, police state,' not because I admired Mr. Hitler's police state, but I felt my rights were being infringed upon."

McLeod said he was provoked because police wanted to question him without telling him what the charge was.

VIEWS of SPORTBy Red Smith

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Love has come to Bo Belinsky, and of all the tidings from 20 big league training camps this spring, none could be sweeter.

In the view of many, baseball is a grossly earthy pursuit, coarse and sweaty, with pitchers who spit and batters who blaspheme and managers who strut in vainglory. Yet one need only see a news photo of Bo with his playmate, Miss Jo Collins, to realize that the game has a spiritual side.

They are a charming couple, unmistakably made for each other. Though many managers have failed to appreciate him and soulless general managers have bruised his sensibilities, Belinsky has never lost the air of conscious grandeur he acquired on May 5, 1962, when he pitched a no-hitter game.

Nor is he beloved any stranger to fame on her own account. This celestial creature once was immortalized by Playboy magazine as Playmate of the Year, and in her field that's better than pitching a no-hitter. Small wonder her swan left the Houston Astros flat to rush to her side. For her sweet sake, any redblooded American boy would quit the St. Louis Cardinals.

Perhaps there are readers so preoccupied with the affairs of Lynda and Chuck and Pat—or is it the other way around?—that they haven't been following baseball's version of Tristan and Isolde. They should be advised that since the Astros pitched camp in Cocoa, Florida, last month, Jo and Bo making the evening scene together.

It is easy to understand how a young man in those circumstances could come to regard the Astros' 1 a.m. curfew as something meant for married players, hermits and Trappist monks. Yet when Bo sought permission from Spec Richardson, the general manager, to stay out later, he was rebuffed.

Perhaps Richardson reasoned that a pitcher who had won a total of 28 major league games in six years wasn't entitled to special privileges, especially one who wasn't even included on Houston's 40-man roster. At any rate, he said no, whereupon Bo packed his exceedingly sharp threads and blew the barracks.

A day or so later the star-crossed lovers were located in Vero Beach. "This is true love," Bo told the press. "We're getting married."

"In about four months," Jo said. "When my divorce is final."

Belinsky wasn't the first demigod to go over the sill since spring training began. Richie Allen went AWOL from the Phillies' camp in Clearwater a bit earlier (imagine running to Philadelphia away from anywhere). A notion began to form that maybe today's ball players were infected with the spirit of rebellion characteristic of the new generation.

Then second thoughts brought the realization that ball players have always tended to jump over traces, and probably did so even before Rube Waddell was around setting new records. They'll do it in spring training and they'll do it in midseason.

Bugs Raymond, Jumping Joe Dugan, Frank Frisch, Dizzy Dean, Jepp Handley, Billy Cox—there's no end to the list of guys who have departed suddenly and without notice, sometimes in highly unlikely circumstances. For example, what travelling secretary would ever expect to lose two players off the team bus en route from New York to the Newark Airport?

It happened to Duffy Lewis of the Red Sox a few years ago. Impatient when the bus got caught in traffic heading for the George Washington Bridge, Gene Conley, pitcher, and Pumpkie Green, infielder, sloped off. They were next seen at Idlewild Airport where Conley, bobbing and weaving, was trying to arrange a booking to Israel.

Pumpkie rejoined the club in a day or so but Conley was missing for about a week. When he turned up, it was in a prayer meeting in Lancaster, Mass., where, presumably, he was a penitent.

The classic disappearance—it has been mentioned here before—involved Flint Rhem, a pitcher with the Cardinals of 1930. St. Louis was making a great come-from-behind run for the pennant that September but the Dodgers still clung to a narrow lead when the Cardinals arrived to open a series in Brooklyn.

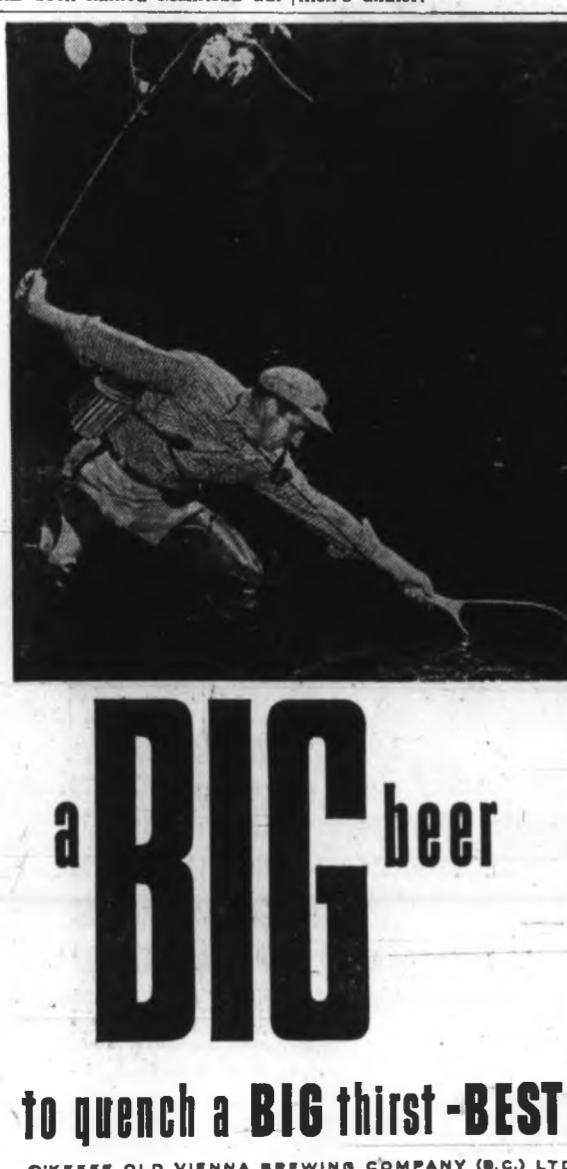

Rhem, who was scheduled to pitch, didn't make it to Ebbets Field. The Cardinals won without him. On their return to the Alamac Hotel in Manhattan it was ascertained that Rhem had hadn't been slept in the night before.

Rhem showed up later that evening, with a perfectly reasonable explanation. It seemed that he had been kidnapped by Brooklyn mobsters who, to protect their bets on the Dodgers, had held him captive for 24 hours and forced whisky down his gullet at gunpoint.

There was only one hole in the story. Prohibition was the law of the land at the time, and everybody knew it was impossible to find grog in Brooklyn, the Borough of Churches. Let alone find a Brooklyn citizen who would buy a drink.

Writers Pick Cards, TigersBy JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—If the sports writer and sportscasters are right, it will be St. Louis Cardinals and Detroit Tigers in the World Series next October.

The world champion Cardinals of the National League were picked to repeat by 19 of 387 voters and they picked Pittsburgh Pirates as the toughest competition.

Tigers drew 122 votes to unseat Boston Red Sox in the American League in a tight race with Minnesota and Chicago.

The votes were scattered so widely that at every team, except Oakland and Houston, received at least one first-place ballot. Most of the 20 teams drew votes for each position.

The Associated Press has decided to award a $100 prize to the voter who comes the closest to the exact order of finish in the majors. If the races run true to form, the computers will get a real workout determining the winner. Associated Press writers are not eligible.

Last year the writers decided Baltimore and Pittsburgh would win the pennants but both were way down there in the second division when the Cardinals met the Red Sox.

Despite Boston's surprising victory in 1967, the Red Sox were picked no better than fourth in the voting this season.

Dolphins Land Czonka After Duel with Als

MIAMI (AP)—Miami Dolphins won a tug of war with Montreal of the Canadian Football League Thursday by signing their No. 1 draft choice, record-breaking fullback Larry Czonka of Syracuse.

The American Football League club declined to release details of the contract, including money or duration, but managing partner Joe Robbie said the terms "recognize Czonka as one of the top half players in America."

The 6-foot-3, 240-pound Czonka, who is reported to have received three-year offer of $100,000 from Montreal Alouettes, said he is happy with the outcome of the Dolphins negotiations.

Courtroom Parade

Screaming, Hollering And Cussing

A Victoria man was found guilty in central magistrate's court Thursday of assaulting a peace officer and was remanded in custody to April 10 for a pre-sentence report.

Stanley Disiewicz, 1480 Dallas, had pleaded not guilty to the charge of assaulting Constable Sagert.

Constable Sagert said he and Constable Frederick Mills were called to the Disiewicz apartment about 3 a.m. March 24 and found the lights on and the doors all open.

"I could hear loud screams of a female," he said. "A man picked up an electric iron and threw it towards the woman."

The constables made another attempt to calm the man down.

Subdued, Handcuffed

"He was screaming, hollering, swearing and cussing," the constable said.

Court was told the man had to be subdued and handcuffed before he was taken to the police station and later, when his handcuffs were removed, he "came at" the policemen again.

The case of Leslie Ralph Laronde, 101 Klingham, who pleaded guilty to possession of a narcotic, was adjourned for one week while Crown counsel obtains information from Ottawa.

Defence counsel Alan Bigelow asked for a suspended sentence after he presented four witnesses who testified the accused was of excellent character and reputation.

Concurrent Terms

William Richard Demery, 50, of no fixed address, was sentenced to six months in jail on a charge of false pretences and one month for obtaining lodgings and food by fraud. The sentences will be concurrent.

Demery cashed a $100 cheque at the Empress Hotel. He also checked in Friday night and left the next day owing a bill of $18.

John Robert Calow, 1243 Colville, was fined $25 when he pleaded guilty to the breach of a fire marshal regulation. A fire at his house was caused by an oil burner which had been improperly installed and without a permit.

Grounded Two Years

"The policeman was flung from the car and killed and the man was convicted of murder," the magistrate said.

Ronald Kiebert, 28, of 1323 Sussex, was fined a total of $650 on two charges resulting from a traffic accident March 27. His driver's license was suspended for two years.

Police said Kiebert caused a four-car collision at Esquimalt and Catherine. Four persons were sent to hospital.

Kiebert was fined $250 for criminal negligence and $40 for impaired driving.

Gregory Thomas Cashen of Vancouver was fined $375 after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving. He was arrested on Sooke Road while driving erratically about 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Novotny

Hits Own RoleNovotny Admits Errors

PRAGUE (AP) — Antonin Novotny, the ousted Stalin-line ruler of Czechoslovakia, reappeared Thursday before the Communist reformers who forced him from power. He admitted "serious errors and aberrations" during his 15 years as party chief.

Novotny criticized his own role in the Stalinist purge trials of the 1950s at a meeting of the party's Central Committee, the official news agency CTK said.

He said his errors would remain a dark stain on Czechoslovakia's post-war history. At least 12 prominent Communist leaders were hanged during a series of show trials.

OUT IN JANUARY

Novotny was pushed from his post as party secretary in January by liberals led by Alexander Dubcek, the new party chief. He surrendered his second major position, the largely ceremonial presidency, last month. Gen. Ludvik Svoboda, a war hero, was sworn in as the new president Saturday.

The committee Thursday nominated Oldrich Cernik, 44-year-old economist, to form a new government, replacing followers of Novotny. The nomination, submitted to President Svoboda, was virtually assured of approval.

RESHUFFLE

Cernik served as deputy premier in the outgoing government of Premier Josef Lenart. The government reshuffle was paralleled by the dismissal of 12 members of the 15-man Central Committee presidium, the party's highest body.

In a long speech, of which only brief excerpts were released, Novotny said he "supported" the decisions of the Central Committee last January which led to his ouster. He retains membership on the Central Committee.

Novotny denied, however, charges that he tried to stage an army coup to help himself and the old guard in power.

Polish Rulers Chided

WARSAW (UPI) — A pro-government Roman Catholic newspaper Thursday criticized the all-powerful ruling Communist coalition for not allowing the people more voice in government, calling for more democracy in Poland's socialist system.

The attack by Slowo Powazne against the Communist-dominated national unity front was mild but considered surprising. The editorial came in the midst of a wave of dismissals of high-ranking government officials and followed student demands for reforms and more freedom.

The latest to be dismissed was Daniel Kac, chairman of the office of state economic reserves.

Misfire May Delay Apollo

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Three engines misfired on the second U.S. Saturn V super rocket Thursday and hurled a 132-ton satellite into the wrong orbit, possibly delaying the Apollo lunar landing timetable by casting doubt whether the rocket is ready to launch astronauts.

Despite the fact that three of the 11 primary engines failed aboard the Saturn V—the type of booster being developed to launch men to the moon—its Apollo VI spacecraft landed close to a Pacific Ocean target zone.

EACH ORBIT

If the flight had been intended to propel astronauts to the moon, however, "we would have had to conduct an alternate mission in each orbit," said Maj.-Gen. Samuel C. Phillips, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Apollo program office.

"The objective of having a propulsion system function properly on each stage was not met," Phillips said. "It certainly makes this less than a perfect mission."

LOFTY HEIGHTS

While troubles developed with the Saturn V, its Apollo VI spacecraft performed well throughout the nine-hour, 56-minute mission. The moonship powered itself to a lofty altitude 13,821 miles over the Indian Ocean, then survived a fiery re-entry dive through the earth's atmosphere and parachuted to the Pacific Ocean.

NASA at first said the craft landed about 250 miles short of its original target zone, but later said a visual observation by recovery forces confirmed that the vehicle landed close to its pre-planned splashdown point—despite a revised flight plan caused by the misfires.

HOUR SLOWER

The rejigged plan caused the spacecraft to re-enter about 4,000 miles an hour slower than originally desired. Officials had hoped the ship would barrel through the atmosphere at nearly 25,000 miles an hour to test the Apollo heat shield at lunar return speeds.

The helicopter-carrying assault ship USS Okinawa, prime recovery vessel, headed toward the predicted landing site 250 miles away, then had to do an about-face to its original position.

90 MILES

The moonship splashed about 90 miles behind the Okinawa, causing an estimated delay in the recovery of about four hours.

At stake as the 363-foot-tall booster thundered into space was whether the Saturn V rocket was qualified to launch astronauts.

It had performed as flawlessly as the first super-rocket mission last Nov. 9. NASA was prepared to skip a third unmanned test and go directly to manned Saturn flights.

ENGINE KINKS

Despite the engine problems, the booster did safely orbit a spacecraft, and Phillips said "there is a possibility" the third Saturn V may still be manned.

Flying astronauts aboard the next Saturn V would accelerate the Apollo lunar landing by several months, possibly permitting a landing on the moon by the middle of 1969. Having to fly another unmanned test of the super booster would delay the manned lunar landing at least until the last half of 1969.

BIG ROCKET

The majestic Saturn V lifted off on time at 4 a.m., PST, but two of five engines in the powerful rocket's second stage shut down prematurely as the booster propelled its payload—including the unmanned Apollo VI moonship—toward space.

Three other second-stage motors and a single engine aboard the Saturn V's last stage took up the slack, shoving the last stage with the Apollo spacecraft still attached into an orbit 110 miles too high. Instead of a planned 115-mile-high circular path, the satellite ended up in an elliptical orbit ranging from 110 to 225 miles high.

THREE HOURS

Then two orbits later—three hours, 13 minutes after liftoff—the last stage failed to reignite. It was to propel itself about 32,000 miles into space to prove it can kick an Apollo spacecraft out of earth orbit and toward the moon.

Cause of the engine failures was not immediately determined, although the space agency said prior to the failure of the last-stage reignition that a leak was detected in a system that pressurizes fuel aboard the rocket.

School Freeze Lid 'Lifts a Bit' 'As Victoria West Work Bared'

By NANCY BROWN

Education department officials have indicated they will approve construction of part of a new elementary school in Victoria West, school board chairman Peter Bunn told a PTA-arranged meeting Thursday.

"I think the lid has lifted a bit on the freeze," he said. Architects had met for critical discussions with school board and education department officials Tuesday and will bring revised plans for submission Monday.

"I think we will be allowed to go to tender for the classrooms, and see if we can come up with some favorable figures," said Mr. Bunn.

Some Left Out

He said plans would have to exclude replacement of activity room, change rooms and administration areas.

MLA Herbert Bruch fielded questions for 90 minutes in a meeting which frequently turned hotly political.

He was asked what he was doing for his constituents, and how far he was prepared to go to advance their interests, especially in pushing for a new school.

"I have a responsibility to my constituents, but I have to take the wider view," he replied.

He said he had asked questions both in and out of the House and urged approval of the school when possible.

He said money was made available for the development of a seaport at Roberts Bank because it would develop the province and lead to the establishment of secondary industries.

Bank Essential

The provincial government had not asked the federal government to build the port because of a matter of control.

He said dams were also essential to encourage secondary industries, to give school graduates work in the province.

He was asked why the civil service superannuation fund couldn't be used for school investment, instead of bank investment.

Mr. Bruch replied the government considered establishment of a western-controlled bank essential. Money loaned to Quebec was being repaid in instalments to build the Columbia Treaty dams and was not available for schools.

He blamed the federal government's tight money policy for the freeze on construction.

Mr. Bruch said the government's concern was for the development of the province.

Mr. Bunn retorted that the concern of parents and school board was for the young people.

"The future of our children is being sacrificed for this venture."

"The government isn't concerning itself about people, and the chronically sick and the children are suffering."

"This terrific gamble may pay off. We may get the industries, but who will get the good jobs in these industries?"

"The people who'll get the really worthwhile jobs in these industries will be people like myself who came as immigrants to this country in the late 40s."

Victoria Fire Chief Eric Simons said the department was satisfied with the safety factors in the school, with certain modifications already in the late 40s."

Safety Group Urged To Get Going

What the city needs to stop "carnage in the streets" is an all-inclusive, high-powered, many-faceted campaign, members of the newly-formed Greater Victoria Safety Council were told Thursday.

Traffic Engineer David Campbell urged the council, which is in the midst of organizational birth pains, to "get on with the job."

What the city has been lacking in such committees as the traffic safety committee of the chamber of commerce, he said, was someone to conduct specific campaigns.

TALK TO ELDERLY

What was needed was someone or group to get behind and actively support Safe Driving Week; someone to go to the senior citizens' centre and talk to the old people about walking at night in dark clothing, and how to conduct themselves with safety on the streets.

Chairman of the meeting, Peter Pollen, suggested that the interests of the council should embrace all kinds of safety — road safety, water safety and safety from house hold and industrial accidents.

Majority of those wishing to quit are below the rank of petty officer. No officers have submitted applications to leave.

The release regulation was a special provision of the Canadian Armed Forces Re-organization Act, and went into effect Jan. 31.

Anybody who asked to be released could expect to go within six months of application, he spokesman said.

Gun Wound Death Cause

City fireman Donald Thompson, 50, died of a gunshot wound in the head which brought about a cerebral hemorrhage and a fractured skull.

A coroner's jury ruled Thursday night that the death was suicide.

Mr. Thompson's body was found in the Gorge off Garibaldi Road March 26.

There was a bullet wound in his head, a pickaxe tied around his waist and a five-pound lead weight tied around his neck.

Its big function would be to facets of safety.

Schools Amendment Passes Second Reading

'Standards Lowered' by Bill

Amendments to the Public Schools Act establishing a new education finance formula were given clause-by-clause approval by the Legislature early today. The bill was amended in committee and will receive third or final reading either today or early next week. In this case, it is merely formal approval with the opposition parties indicating by vote whether they support the measure.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said: "The minister is talking softy, but he is still carrying a big stick. I simply can't accept his suggestion that this legislation will bring light and reason and peace to the B.C. school system."

The house adjourned at 12:30 a.m.

Illness Grants Ships Brief Reprieve

By MARK DICKINSON

A crew member of a Japanese tug went to hospital in Victoria Thursday night and slightly altered the course of West Coast marine history.

Early this morning, Victorians were to bid goodbye to two of the last naval frigates on the coast — one of them a pioneer weather ship on Station Papa.

The lifeless hulks of the Beacon Hill and St. Catherines were to make their last trip to sea on the end of a tow line from the tug Toko Maru, and were destined for a scrap yard at Sakai, Japan.

But the Toko Maru's second engineer, Take Tsuboi, 22, developed appendicitis early Thursday evening and was taken to Veterans' Hospital.

This immediately cast doubt on the scheduled leaving time of the tug and her historic tow. A hospital official said doctors might operate on Mr. Tsuboi sometime today, and he would be held here for at least a week.

There was also speculation he might be kept in hospital for a few days and later returned to Japan for the operation.

"He's not acutely ill right now, but the doctors are watching him," the spokesman said.

A shipping official said the time of departure would not be known until this afternoon.

all pending the doctors' decision on Mr. Tsuboi.

The tug, owned by Mitsui Shipping of Osaka, arrived in Esquimalt harbor at noon Thursday.

The Beacon Hill and St. Catherines were sold recently through Crown Assets Disposal Corporation to N. W. Kennedy Shipping of Vancouver.

Both vessels were once proud warships that plied the Pacific Ocean in the service of the Royal Canadian Navy.

late 1940s was returned to the West Coast and over to the transport department as a weathership.

She and the Stowmet became pioneers of Station Papa, an area 900 miles west of Victoria that is renowned for its hurricane-force winds and mountainous seas in winter.

Both ships were replaced over the past two years by the $12,000,000 vessels, Quadra and Vancouver.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann: I have an unusual problem. Too many brains. It all started when I was in the 7th grade. The teachers decided I was too smart for the 7th grade so they promoted me to the 8th. I didn't like the kids in the 8th grade because all my friends were in the 7th. I did well academically but I was unhappy emotionally.

When it came time to choose my 9th grade subjects, I wanted to take a business course, but my counsellor and my mother decided I HAD to go to college so they forced me to take subjects to prepare me.

Now I have to choose 10th grade subjects and we are fighting again. I told them I did not ask to be put in the genius class that I hate algebra and trigonometry. I've already had work that some of the other kids won't get until 11th and 12th grades. Why won't they let me take the business course? I want to

Solved the Problem

Dear Ann Landers: Ellen and I were married two years ago after a stormy courtship. My older brother used to date Ellen and when they broke up it was a mess — ugly stories were circulated by both sides.

When Ellen and I married, my brother was in the service and out of the country, so that solved the problem of whether or not to have him at the wedding. At a family get-together they barely speak.

Now my brother has announced that he is going to be married and he wants me to be his best man. Ellen says she will not attend the wed-

I Encouraged Him'

Dear Ann Landers: Here's the story: He's married and I knew it. I let him move into my place for days at a time. I allowed him to spend money on me that he should have been spending on his children. I encouraged him to take me to public places so we'd be seen. The end came last week when we bumped into his 18-year-old son and a group of his buddies.

Peak Cheese Time Delights Gourmets

LOS ANGELES (LAT)—This is peak cheese season of the year. In spite of relaxed Lenten restrictions for Roman Catholics, cheese still is most abundant at this time.

Consequently, this is an ideal season to enjoy a cheese discovery project.

Many people are becoming cheese connoisseurs. A market of a generation ago might have stocked three to seven different cheese items. Today's selection may include 200 to 250 items, up to 600 or 700 in a specialty cheese shop.

Some of the items are slices, cubes or grated cheese of the same varieties. But many are basically different cheeses.

The ideal start for cheese discovery is at a supermarket delicatessen case. In addition to the usual fare, sliced Swiss and spread, you'll see such fascinating names as Port Salut or Saint Paulin, Provolone, Mozzarella, Gorgonzola and Camembert.

You'll see such shapes as balls of Gouda or Edam, wheels (actually flat cakes) of Grape Cheese or Roquefort, bricks of Brick or Leidenkraan, small cones of Sap Sago, braids of semi-soft Armenian cheese or sausage shapes of Italian cheese.

The shapes and nomenclature of cheeses have little to do with their uses. Shape is determined by the convenience of the cheesemaker, molds available, the strength of the curd and other technical details.

The name most often is taken from the place of origin of a cheese (Roquefort from the Roquefort district of France, Parmesan from Parma in Italy, Cheddar from a village by that name in England).

Other cheeses are named for their shape. The Italian Salame is a provolone type cheese shaped much like a sausage. Or a cheese is named for its texture—cream being the most notable. Mozzarella literally means stringy and when this cheese is cooked in lasagne or pizza, two of its common uses, it is stringy.

But shape and name add a great deal to the distinction of certain cheese. Blue cheese is when made in Wisconsin or Iowa, and there are fine American blue cheeses. But call it Roquefort, Gorgonzola, Stilton or Ost Banabue, and it is a different cheese.

An edam or baby gouda with shiny red wax shell becomes the centerpiece for a fruit and cheese tray. Or set out a whole wheel of bel paese for an elegant snack with after-dinner wine.

A cheese tray is the perfect set-up for cheese discovery. With a half dozen cheeses and appropriate wines, fruit and bread to go with them, cheeses can be the main purpose of a simple fire-side party.

The cheese should be at room temperature, removed from the refrigerator at least a half hour before serving. Soft ripening cheese such as Camembert should be at the perfect runny-crisp stage, neither too firm nor overripe.

Extremely hard cheeses such as Parmesan, Romano and Sap Sago are not suitable for a cracker and cheese tray. They are grating cheeses, the Parmesan and Romano for sprinkling on casseroles, spaghetti with sauce or salads. Sap Sago is mixed with soft butter or cream cheese to use as a spread or celery stuffing.

Blue cheese dressing probably is the best known way of serving Roquefort and other blues. But these pungent cheeses are ideal for desserts, too, especially with mellow grapes, crusty bread or crackers and good port or madiera.

Introducing Entrance Floor Polish

Quite modestly, it's the best, clear, self-polishing, detergent-resistant floor wax—bar none!

How do we know? It took 2 million steps to prove it. People stepped on it in high heels, low heels, brogues and work boots... still Entrance kept its shine, resisted scuffing and marking. We tested Entrance Floor Polish commercially for one year before offering it to you. We proved it on office floors, lobbies and entrances to hardheaded businessmen. It was a tough test but Entrance came through looking great. One coat will give a higher gloss to your floor than any other wax and for better protection you can apply additional coats immediately. Entrance costs a little more than ordinary floor polishes but you'll use less of it, less often.

Next time you buy floor wax, make it Entrance. It's a better floor polish than any you've used before... bar none!

So, make your first step onto Entrance.

PERSONAL MENTION

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

A group of young Victorians have done themselves proud this last week and this. Budding young ballet dancers have practically swept the board at the Up Island Musical Festival in Nanaimo.

But their teacher, Wynne Shaw, writes in pleaful vein, "Why, Oh why didn't I choose a nice quiet profession."

She goes on "It's been a hectic week what with Circus Capers replacing half the dancers last Saturday as they were dancing in Nanaimo and also rehearsing for Brigadoon."

Cheryl Moore won a $25 bursary for the highest mark (93) in ballet solo although Valerie Smith, second wasn't far behind with a mark of 92.

Another honor was won by the group doing Spanish dance, La Jota. They won the $50 bursary and received the highest mark in the entire dance section, 98. They have also been invited to repeat the dance at the honor performance to be held in Nanaimo this Saturday evening.

These dancers were James Andrews, Muriel Angus, Elizabeth Andrews, Diana Fisher, Maureen Fraser, Diana Hajnal, Delcie McLellan, Leslie Olson, Gillian Regehr and Kerry Senior.

Chalked

Firsts were also chalked up by Maureen Lawson, Gillian Regehr, Colleen Decorte, and Valerie Smith.

Group firsts were won by the Yellow Ballet — Pamela Axiis, Non-Lynne Avren, Kim Chuback, Liane Pearn and Maude Van Klaveren; Pink ballet, Kathryn Clark, Deborah Collins, Winifred Davis, Gina Eaton, Susan Ford, Linda Greene, Rita Jancowicz, Anne Kovacs, Juliana Kovacs, Marina Morgan, Alison Peterson, Sherry Wong, Roslyn Wormald, Lucinda Bowles, Nina-Lisa Christensen, Tamara Humphreys, Darlene Leung, Nancy Lewis, Karen Olson, Robyn Richards and Maureen Sullivan.

The White ballet group also led in their class — Brenda Barrow, Angela Bowles, Nancy Forrest, Lorena Henry, Teresa Hunter, Rita Janowicz, Michele Lester, Sharon MacLeod, Kirsten Olson, Janice Pearce, Meret Witt and Carolyn Young. Also first were Diane Fisher, Maureen Fraser, Leslie Olson, Gillian Regehr and Pamela Stoddard in the jazz and Kerry Lynn Senior and Debbie Carlson in the pas de deux.

Taking second place and not very much behind marks wise were Pamela Stoddard, and Kerry Senior in solos. The Green ballet also placed second — Janet Andrews, Maureen Fraser, Leslie Olson, Gillian Regehr and Kerry Senior. The Red Ballet group also came second — Deborah Adams, Suzanne Bramley, Heather Campbell, Jane Glazie, Debra Fong, Marisa Fong, Rhonda Keddie, Kim Chuback, Lauren MacLeod, Marsha Main, Patricia Nell, Andrea Prevost, Carol Stening and Laurie Wilkins.

Spring Fashions Highlight CARS Showings

By TRUDY KEMP

Smart new spring and summer ensembles with the emphasis on accessories were modelled at the fashion show and tea Wednesday, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society.

Century Inn was the setting for the afternoon and evening strolling shows featuring elegant and delightfully wearable fashions from Toojays.

Mrs. Rosanne Barrett, commentator, said the fashions represented a day in the lives of eight active women. They were designed to be worn from early morning right through to the cocktail hour.

* * *

A drip dry cotton nightie and a colorful patio robe—so delightful to wear for morning coffee break—were included in the morning attire, and were followed by attractive afternoon suits and dresses.

A high fashion jacket dress in black and white pin stripe was accented with an elegant large brimmed straw hat in black braid and beaded black handbag.

* * *

Smart outfits created for wedding guests or for an early summer garden party were featured. A popular ensemble was a French blue silk jacket dress enhanced by a delightfully feminine hat in green net and loaded with tiny pink flowers.

A brimmed hat of organza with a garland of flowers forming the high crown topped off a pale pink silk coat over matching sheath — an outfit just right for a wedding. Mrs. Hugh Stephen opened the tea which followed the afternoon show. Mrs. N. B. Fatt, president, and Mrs. George Steele, first vice-president, received the guests.

Other head table guests were: Mrs. Evan Jones, president of the board; Mrs. E. C. Carson, honorary first vice-president; Mrs. A. J. Bowering, past president; Mrs. J. Barracough of Toojays, and Mrs. L. B. Williams.

Home Book Has Impact

By EUGENIA SHEPPARD

Most $25 picture books for coffee tables aren't worth half the price, but Vogue's "Houses, Gardens, People," published by Viking is different. The chapters that have appeared separately over the past five years, have seemed to many people the most believable part of the magazine; put together with no bothersome run-overs to back pages, they have even more impact.

The photographs are by Horst and the text is by Valentine Lawford. "They are the greatest team since Bowell and Johnson," says Diana Vreeland, editor-in-chief of Vogue.

Let's get one thing straight in the beginning. "Houses, Gardens, People," has no helpful hints for would-be decorators or directives on how to make green things grow. It is a straightforward report on how a few unique people live with their possessions that are hardly run of the mill, either.

"I never arrange anything to look better the way the decorating magazines do," says Horst. When there's a messy pile of old magazines on a table, he leaves them right where they are. In fact, he sometimes adds to the mess by putting down a light meter or leaving a cigarette burning on an ash tray.

If some of the couples come through as messy, rash, and more amusing than others, it's because they manage to stay on top of their possessions and take them with more humor than the others. Among the most entertaining are the Desmond Guinesses, with their Irish castle; Lord and goodness knows what else" decorations, is recorded in the book. Some of the other celebrities are Amanda and Carter Burden, Doris Duke, Nancy Lancaster, who is the late Nancy Astor's niece, Emiko Pucci and his wife Cristine, and the Queen Mother of Rumania. "She's had a miserable life but kept a wonderful sense of humor," write Lawford says. Both the Queen Mother and her lady in waiting were dedicated photographers themselves.

The team often visits the house and lives with the people it's recording. Diana Vreeland is always avid for every realistic detail.

Lawford

Lady Eliot, who have a castle-type country house in Cornwall and Senator and Mrs. Taylor Pryor, who lead a largely underwater life in Hawaii.

Mrs. Desmond Guiness appears on the book jacket, looking right out of a French impressionist painting. She's wearing a tatty, black fringed shawl and an antique red plaid uniform as she sits at a dressing table almost covered with a vase of outside Irish garden flowers.

Everything was completely helter-skelter," says Horst of Exlip Castle near Dublin, where the young Guinesses live. Desmond Guiness has toured this country recently, speaking about his own and other Irish castles.

Margie Guiness his wife, is crazy about dressing up in the English, costumey way. "One night she asked me what she should wear," Horst says. They climbed a spiral staircase to her room at the top of a medieval tower. "There were a few Dior boxes—and some old uniforms. She decided on a guard's uniform."

Horst

Another night to remember, Mrs. Guiness was dressed as her great aunt Princess Elizabeth of Austria. A house guest, Lucy Lambton, was wearing her grandmother's wedding dress. Writer Lawford was knitting a scarf for the Guiness children's teddy bear and Horst was photographing the scene.

Lady Eliot, an off-beat, contemporary beauty, rates the only full page color portrait in the book. The Eliots own more silver than Tiffany's, in their home.

"One man does all the cleaning," says Horst.

Young Mrs. Taylor Pryor is photographed playing with a dolphin. The couple spend most of their time in ocean adventures.

Not all the pieces are about wealthy young couples who can afford to lead exotic lives. One chapter is the story of the old New England church in Stonington, Conn., that Mrs. Charles Fuller made into a home for herself. She's the mother of former fashion editor Anne Fuller and of Bettina Bergery, who work with Madame Gres in Paris.

Mrs. Fuller was too shy to appear in any of the photographs of even her bell tower room. So were Horst and Lawford, whose Oyster Bay house with the rolling lawn, new trees, "oriental and

Barge Tips on Columbia

Oil Spilled on River

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP)—Crude oil was leaking into the Columbia River overnight from a capsized petroleum barge.

The U.S. Coast Guard said Wednesday the oil floated five or six miles. Earlier, shortly after the barge flipped over, more refined oil travelled to the mouth of the river, in places covering 70 to 80 per cent of the main channel.

The Pacific Inland Navigation Co. has surrounded the barge with logs, attempting to confine the oil.

The coast guard has not determined what caused the 225-foot barge to overturn early Wednesday.

Chess Leaders Tie Again

History has repeated itself in the Victoria chess championship. They agreed to share the crown.

For the second consecutive year, Alan Lane and Edward Seedhouse have finished the championship round tied with 13 points.

Last year they also tied for first and tried to break the deadlock in a five-game match. When they failed to produce a decision, a good chance of finishing third.

Seedhouse and Seedhouse are likely to be the only Vancouver Island representatives in the B.C. Closed chess championship in New Westminster during Easter weekend.

The big annual tournament runs April 12, 13 and 14 at New Westminster Recreation Centre.

For Hellyer

Influential Quebec newspaperman Claude Ryan Thursday supported Paul Hellyer in Liberal leadership race. Publisher of Le Devoir said the logical choice is between the two, while Trudeau is superior intellectually, Hellyer is "a man of decision and action."

Hot Topic

No Unity On Unity

OTTAWA (CP) — It was standing room only when Justice Minister Trudeau addressed a policy workshop on "Our Country" at the Liberal leadership convention Thursday.

Consumer Affairs Minister Turner also drew well in the 4½-hour session. Eric Kierans, former Quebec cabinet minister, was last speaker and only some 40 delegates stayed to hear him.

General theme of the workshop was national unity, though many of the leadership candidates disagreed considerably.

Trudeau, speaking in English and French, suggested that the Senate be made an elected body as is the U.S. Senate.

Majority Rights

A delegate accused Mr. Trudeau of advocating a Senate which would have veto powers over the rights of the majority.

"How do you justify that?" he demanded.

"It is not justified and I have never taken that stand," Trudeau replied.

"I have proof," the delegate said.

"Bring up your witnesses," Trudeau retorted. The delegate subsided.

But most of the session was far less lively.

External Affairs Minister Martin's supporters staged the most vociferous demonstration.

Public Opinions

Martin, in an apparent reference to public opinion polls, said the convention's result will be determined by the delegates and not by people outside the convention.

He said he would retain in his cabinet present cabinet-candidates and add new faces.

Turner said the problem of national unity must be tackled by negotiation, not confrontation, although "Canada itself is not negotiable."

Transport Minister Hellyer, 44, promised to reduce the number of federal departments to 18 from 23 and save $50,000,000.

Easier to Take

Trudeau, 46, said lowering the voting age is not one of his great priorities. He could live with the present voting age of 21 and as he got older it would be still easier to live with.

The monarchy was a recurrent theme in the question-and-answer period.

Hellyer said Canadians should concentrate on things which unite them, not divide. Trudeau made a similar comment.

Kierans said the monarchy should be kept out of politics until it is time—in five or 10 years—for a national referendum.

Outside Pair Joins Names Under Trudeau Shadow

OTTAWA (CP) — Two relatively unknown joined eight big-name politicians as official candidates Thursday as the Liberal leadership convention opened under the big shadow of Pierre Elliott Trudeau, the early pick of the poll-takers.

Trudeau, the justice minister, five of his cabinet colleagues, former trade minister Winters and Eric Kierans, former president of the Quebec Liberal Federation, routinely filed nomination papers to become official candidates.

MONTREAL MINISTER

But two of the so-called fringe candidates also managed to qualify with the required minimum of 50 signatures of voting delegates. They are Lloyd Henderson, a 60-year-old Presbyterian minister from Portage la Prairie, Man., who got one vote at the 1958 leadership convention, and Ernest Zuendel, a 29-year-old commercial artist from Montreal.

The early betting had been that Henderson, who spent $20,000 on his leadership campaign, would make the grade, but the other six unknowns would not. But Zuendel upset the predictions and enters the convention process along with the others.

GREENE DISMISSED

It had long been a foregone conclusion that the Big Eight would easily qualify even though two of them, Kierans and Agriculture Minister Greene, have been dismissed by most political observers as having only minimal delegate support.

Others in the official lineup: Consumer Affairs Minister Turner, Transport Minister Hellyer, Health Minister MacEachen and External Affairs Minister Martin.

LOW-KEY CEREMONY

The nominations closed at 9 a.m. PDT after a low-key opening ceremony that included a brief address by Prime Minister Pearson, stepping down in favor of the convention choice.

Pearson, describing the convention as "my last hurrah," invited the 2,481 eligible delegates not to tear the capital apart in their zeal.

Yard Union Queries 'Shoo-In'

A Victoria union local, figuring Pierre-Elliott Trudeau a shoo-in for Liberal Leader and next prime minister, has sent him a telegram asking his opinion on shipyard work.

The International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Shipbuilders, Blacksmiths and Helpers, Local 191, asked what Trudeau thought of the news that four warships are all to be built in two Quebec shipyards, and also his position on "future fair sharing of contracts."

Robichaud Will Lead Where 131 Follow

OTTAWA (CP) — New Brunswick's Premier Louis Robichaud said Thursday he will vote for Nova Scotia's Allan MacEachen on the first ballot at the Liberal leadership convention Saturday, then tell his province's 131 delegates of his second choice.

He wouldn't give any names but said he had spoken to all the serious candidates. He added, "I'm sure most (of the 131 delegates) will follow my lead."

He told the gathering crowd in the civic centre hockey arena it would be "the greatest political convention ever held in Canada."

If there were any real signs of panic among the leading contenders behind Trudeau, it was well-concealed behind the sunny smiles on the faces of the second and third-rank candidates.

Candidates watched the opening ceremonies from front-row boxes in the stands. A small crowd gathered in front of the Trudeau section, where the justice minister sat with four cabinet supporters, including Finance Minister Sharp, who dramatically withdrew the day before the race to support Trudeau.

Most of the deal talk continued to centre on Hellyer, Martin and Turner, thought by the poll-takers to have solid delegate support in varying degrees.

OVER FOR THEM

In the first hours of the convention, the indications are that other major candidates are unlikely to follow Sharp's lead and drop out in favor of somebody else. They generally insist they stay in to the end, which means the actual balloting when they will either throw to another candidate or be knocked out or both as the voting proceeds. The low man is dropped after each ballot.

The fringe candidates who did not qualify as official candidates, the convention is all over.

The ones who didn't make it: Ronald G. Ball of Toronto; John Kroeker, 38, a self-employed actuary in Ottawa; Leonard Krueger, 35, of Winnipeg; Lionel Laramboise, 52, of Elliot Lake; Charles G. Reinboth, 56, Toronto.

"How often do you recommend that my carpet and rug should be cleaned?"

"WE USED TO RECOMMEND

at least once a year, but today due to new fibres and very light colors in carpets and rugs, you may find it necessary to clean them more often—but in some cases less often. Rugs and carpets should be cleaned as soon as soil or dinginess begins to show, particularly in traffic areas. Delaying good professional care may result in harmful permanent damage to the fibres."

Tenders for Police Clothing

Sealed tenders will be received by the undersigned up until noon on Thursday, April 12, 1968, for the following:

1. 100 Blue Polyester Jackets

200 Dark Blue Clip-on Ties

16 Black Ties, Standard Type

20 White Polyester Aprons

6 Pairs Black Gloves—Unlined

Each tender, in excess of $2,000.00 in value, must be accompanied by 5 per cent of the amount of tender, made payable to the City Treasurer.

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

Travis Walker said according to the projected enrollment

$3,200.

He stated, "For a complete cost of $5,000, we can move the school, place it on a new foundation, and install plum-bining, heating and electrical connnections."

He added, "If for some reason a district band room is not available in the future, the building can be used as two classrooms."

Superintendent of Schools

Harvey MacKirdy received the board's approval to provide bus transportation for students to travel to Victoria next winter.

He said, "Three plays will be shown at Basinet Theatre next winter, and tickets are now going on sale while student enthusiasm is still high after seeing the recent production of Taming of the Shrew."

Mr. MacKirdy said the Lake
Cowichan students had thoroughly enjoyed the experience.

He stated, "We feel the teaching will give us suitable temporary accommodation for the district school library, until better facilities can be constructed."

He added, "The board has been investigating the use of an old teacherage located on the secondary school grounds.

In yesterday's column I pointed out that it was quite possible to sow the seeds of the new Summer Sunshine marigolds outdoors where they are to bloom, much as you would sow radishes or carrot seeds.

These Summer Sunshine seeds, the second of our Colonist free seed offers this year, are remarkably hardy and fast-growing, and I would say your chances of raising some superb flowers are pretty good from seeds sown outdoors in the manner outlined.

However, there are a lot of hazards to an outdoor sowing. The seedling plants, while still tiny, could be beaten into the ground by driving rain or storm.

Cutworms or slugs or woodlice might make a meal of them. Or, as sometimes happens, some member of the family, in an excess of zeal, may pull them all up, thinking they are weeds.

These are the chances we take with any outdoor sowing, and when seeds are cheap and plentiful we allow for inevitable losses by sowing more seeds than we expect to come up.

However, the seeds of these hybrid marigolds are neither cheap nor plentiful. We have enough to supply each reader with about 25 seeds, and when these are gone, we can't get any more.

Because of this, then, I think it would be good insurance to start perhaps about half a dozen of your gift seeds indoors, where they can be given some protection until they are big enough and strong enough to stand up against outdoor hazards.

You'll need some kind of container, of course, and ordinary clay or plastic flowerpots are quite satisfactory. If you have to go out and buy pots, I strongly recommend the new styrofoam lightweight kind. Old clay pots should be given a good scrubbing, inside and out, in hot soapy water.

As I mentioned in an earlier column, I hardly ever use soil any more for starting seeds indoors or under glass, for it is so very difficult to get soil which is free from pests and pest eggs, disease spores and weed seeds, and which is of a suitable texture for seed-sowing.

I find it much simpler to start my seeds in peat moss, fir bark, vermiculite, perlite, or some combination or mixture of these excellent and sterile materials.

I have raised quite a few of my seeds in the past in a mixture of equal parts peat moss and vermiculite, or in peat moss and coarse, clean sand — chicken grits and canary gravel are good grades of quartz sand.

This year I am raising some of my seeds in the new Seaforest Mulch, which is a mixture of fir bark and kelp; it is too early yet to evaluate this material as a seed-starting medium, but it looks promising.

Fill the pot with the material of your choice, making it quite firm by pressing down with the fingers and thumbs, levelling off the surface about half an inch below the rim of the pot. If the material is dry, water it slowly but thoroughly with hot water, then set aside to drain.

At this point you can sow your marigold seeds. Space them out on the wet surface by hand, about an inch apart, each way. Then, when all are in position, push each seed just below the surface with the point of a pencil and smooth over the surface.

For quick action, place your pot or seeds in a very warm place; I have brought some of my seeds up in only four days by sitting the pot on top of our hot water tank, and on our oil-fired furnace.

Keep a careful eye on them, though, examining them twice daily, and as soon as the first seedling pokes its nose through the surface, move the pot immediately to a cool but sunny window.

Grow in full sunshine thereafter, transplanting to the outdoor garden when the plants are about three inches tall.

JACK SMITH Gets Letter Tinged with Magic

A Girl Finds Wonderland

An enchanting letter has come to me from a 13-year-old girl ("in about one-half of a month I'll be 14") which reminds me of the wonderful world of discovery in which bright children live.

The young lady flatters me with the thought that we have something in common,

"You're right," she writes, "and that's what is most important. You talk about things you want to talk about. Nobody makes you write about anything. You do it because you want to."

Like me, she is interested in something most of us give up somewhere along the line — self-discovery.

"Every once in a while I go to a special place of mine. It's on a hill where there grows nothing by tall, slender grass, dotted with purple and yellow flowers about the size of a dime.

"From the top of the hill I can see for many, many miles. I can see an airport, and watch planes land and take off. In a month's time, I can see a house grow from its cement foundation to the last dab of paint on the outside walls.

"After coming to see the house built, once I even was lucky enough to watch the people moving in!

"Not only do I see things at a distance, but I see them close up, too.

"In the grass, I watch ants, spiders, gophers, bees, chipmunks, and many other animals. I watch them build their homes, catch their food, and carry along with their busy little life.

"In a way, I think some people are very much like insects. Most of the time, they are rushing here, and rushing there, trying to save time. Insects do this, too, maybe with the same attitude. I don't know. But it's fun to find their 'aliens.'

"All these things I write about. And somehow, writing about all these things always leads up to me. I wonder about myself. Why do I do this? It has become a habit. It's just something that fascinates me, and... I like it.

"I always take my folder with me, and I never write in it unless I'm in my special place. I never read it unless I'm there, either. When I do read in it, I think about how I feel that day, what I was like, and if I'll change.

"Somehow, now that I think of it, I've never had a special place since. No time to find one, I guess, or to go there. Always rushing here, and rushing there, trying to save time.

"Oh, I have a sort of special place now. I call it my den. It has four walls and a telephone and half a dozen other machines. If any insect shows up, I swat him, or my wife gets him up in the vacuum cleaner.

"I envy my young correspondent her special place. I wish her many magic hours there, seeing things at a distance, and up close, too, before the bulldozers come.

The Weighty World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Rod Diets Dangerously

Rod Steiger has lost 28 pounds, he told me. But I don't advise anyone to copy what he is doing to shed the poundage. Rod is on only 500 calories a day, and that is starvation. He also has a daily hormone injection and plays a lot of tennis. The injections give him the energy. After his current two films with wife Claire Bloom, Rod stars as Napoleon with Peter O'Toole as the Duke of Wellington.

The biggest weight loser in Hollywood today is Ernie Borgnine's wife. She has lost 103 pounds on a purely protein diet. Ernie himself is thinner by 63 pounds. "I took off 55 pounds in 45 days," he told me triumphantly on the set of The Split, where he is co-starring with former ace football player Jim Brown. For breakfast, Ernie eats a steak, and the same for lunch or a portion of small-curd cottage cheese, and then the same for dinner. "Only one piece of fruit a day."

Clinics, like the Mayo in Rochester, Minn., and the one at La Jolla, frown on this kind of dieting. They prefer more balanced meals with three servings of fruit a day. Actually you can lose weight if you merely cut in half everything you eat.

'Difference' a Crime

"Sometimes I think the police make as much trouble as they prevent," said the lady, "and there's very little we can do about it. Like the girls who moved in next door.

"They seemed quite pleasant, ordinary girls," she went on, "but some of the friends who visited them were hippies — at least they looked like hippies."

"Outside of their looks, they were no trouble at all. No loud parties, no unseemly behavior. In fact, they even kept their doors unlocked when they went to work during the day — so certainly they had nothing at all to hide."

"But I guess some of the neighbors were upset because of their hippie friends visiting them, and must have told the police. Well, you would have thought the police were investigating a major narcotics ring, the way they kept surveillance on that apartment."

"They staked out a car in front for two days running, with a plainclothes detective in it — so obvious that my little children knew what it was. And the detective was a pig — he sat there reading a gun catalogue and throwing cigarette packs and candy wrappers onto the sidewalk."

"Police cars were forever cruising by and stopping there. I guess they didn't have a warrant to go in, but they were peering in at the windows and just generally making themselves obnoxious."

"Mind you, these girls had done nothing at all — they weren't even hippies themselves, although there's no crime in that. Just a couple of girls from a small town, I imagine, who had come to the city to work and make some new friends of their own choosing."

"Well, this harassment finally got so bad that the owner of the building, who had rented the apartment to the girls, was forced to tell them they had to move at the end of the month — because they were attracting too much attention to the building and the block."

SYDNEY HARRIS

"The owner hated to do it. 'They're the nicest tenants I had in years,' she told me. 'They're clean, pay their rent on time, and have no objectionable habits at all. But I can't have the cops here all the time.' The girls are moving out in a few days."

"This is the kind of thing that embitters young people today — the lack of discrimination on the part of adult society, and especially the police, who look on anybody a little different with deep suspicion. This attitude will only drive them further into the camp of the extremists — and maybe next time the cops WILL have something to pull in."

Discretionary Police Powers

Mental Health Revision Given House Approval

Over the objections of opposition members, a new section of the Mental Health Act giving discretionary powers to police officers in dealing with persons believed to be mentally ill was passed in the legislature Thursday evening.

Two amendments proposed by Tom Berger (NDP-Vancouver-Burrard) aimed at squelching the granting of these powers and at giving a justice of the peace power to commit a person where no magistrate was available, were defeated.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner asked leave to stand over a section on the review of mental patients' cases until he was able to study it further, in view of remarks by Mr. Berger in proposing an amendment. He was given leave.

In his debate on the matter of giving policemen powers to take a person suspected of being mentally ill to a doctor, Mr. Berger said he was afraid it might result in people who were simply different in their behavior being locked up in a mental institution.

"The powers of police must be carefully delineated and carefully circumscribed," he said, adding that psychiatrists should make the decision.

Dr. Howard McNaughton (SC-Alberni) said he felt the urban member was referring to situations where psychiatrists were available.

JUDGMENT

He said a policeman could exercise judgment and take the person to a physician. "A physician is not a nonentity," he said.

Navy Hush on Crew For New Destroyer

No men of the Canadian Armed Forces in the Greater Victoria area have yet been told they will join a new French-speaking destroyer crew at Halifax.

It's too early to say who will be going, a navy spokesman here said Thursday.

About 75 members of the armed forces' total of about 3,850 on southern Vancouver Island are French-speaking.

HMCs Ottawa, a helicopter-destroyer at Halifax, will become the first predominantly French-speaking unit in the Canadian naval forces when her crew is recycled Sept. 18, the navy said Tuesday.

Ten per cent of the ship's crew will be English-speaking, only to give them an opportunity to learn French.

The working language on board the destroyer will be French, but in communicating with other ships, other forces and bases, English will be used.

The ship carries a complement of 11 officers and 198 men.

Three Hopefuls:

Big Changes In Economy

OTTAWA (CP)—Paul Hellyer, Eric Kierans and John Turner promised sweeping changes in economic policy Thursday as they addressed delegates at the Liberal leadership convention.

The three candidates spoke of fundamental change, policy reversal and new structure in government.

A buzz of conversation on the main convention floor and poor acoustics left all 10 leadership candidates with a distracted audience in a workshop on economic problems. In smaller quarters, two other policy seminars proved more attentive.

Transport Minister Hellyer said that as prime minister he would change the direction of federal policy away from social legislation to growth and develop.

He advocated huge funds for regional development and policies turned to regional needs.

Kierans, former Quebec cabinet minister, said Canada lost control of its economic pol-

Foreign Investment

Some favored higher government spending only as revenues increase by economic growth.

As a measure to restore control over the economy, Kierans, Turner and External Affairs Minister Martin all advocated adopting proposals of the Watkins report in foreign investi-

Only Justice Minister Trudeau was interrupted from the floor.

Asked about his differences of view with Premier Johnson of Quebec, he said these were not clashes but a frank explanation of the federal view on the constitution.

Trudeau said he thought he was doing "a great service to Mr. Johnson and Quebec" because the premier was under pressure from separatists.

'War Must Close'

He said the Vietnam war must end. Canada must persuade the U.S. and Hanoi that "this war must close."

Martin said he had worked to bring an end to the Vietnam war and was grateful that Hanoi had agreed to negotiate the terms of de-escalation.

"We are closer now to peace in this regrettable war than at any time since the escalation of the war."

He said that if he is chosen leader he will "take all possible steps" to recognize China and have her admitted to the United Nations.

At home, he would continue to review existing government spending programs at work toward a balanced budget without deviating the Canadian dollar.

He proposed yearly meetings of provincial finance ministers with the federal finance minister before budgets are set. This would help establish priorities.

Trudeau 'Rules' City Talk

OTTAWA (CP) — A Liberal convention workshop on social welfare and urban development was dominated Thursday by Justice Minister Trudeau, strengthening the growing feeling that he is the runaway favorite for the party's leadership.

He was the opening speaker at the workshop, held in an exhibition building near the main convention centre, and drew an enthusiastic audience of about 600 persons. Each of the nine speakers who followed drew well under half that figure.

Replies to some stiff questions about social welfare programs, the justice minister said he believes welfare programs on a universal basis have come to an end.

"I think we've had enough of this free stuff," he said. Medical care insurance, which he supported, was the last one of that type.

Future programs would have

Abortion Supported

Mr. Trudeau was asked why there should be any law on abortion. He said this was an issue in which private morality became a matter of public morality.

"There are certain things on which society basically agrees...the people of Canada now are prepared to have abortion available on demand," the justice minister added.

Kierans said as a Roman Catholic he finds the federal government's proposal for eased abortion laws hard to accept. But he would support it, because a legislator has to respect the views of other groups.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin neatly fielded one embarrassing question from the floor when someone asked if he was the oldest man in the cabinet.

Hellyer Has Dream

He said he could suggest no substitute for strike in labor disputes and said the Liberal promise to establish 10,000 university scholarships has not been dropped.

Hellyer explained his idea of a dream city for up to 3,000,000 inhabitants, with every detail planned before construction.

He said the concept would incorporate a total transportation system, make feasible construction of homes for about $15,000 each, stop use of prime agricultural land for urban expansion, and relieve planners of restrictions imposed by "archaic building laws and unions."

He said people would move to such cities voluntarily because of the availability of low-cost housing. Industry would move because of cheaper land.

Hear, Then Wonder

Kierans said a "generation gap" has evolved in Canada, causing young people to take the attitude that "you can't trust anyone over 25."

He said young people hear their elders deplore the war in Vietnam, then wonder why Canada contributes arms and munitions. They see that Canada is a member of NATO, then wonder if their elders really believe in the concept of the United Nations.

He said that if Canada is to maintain a "credible image" abroad, action is needed instead of "pious words."

He said Canadian firms should not accept more United States defence contracts.

Martin said housing-loan interest rates are too high. He would see that more money was pumped into the residential home market.

He called for a national agricultural conference and said 40 per cent of Canadian farmers have a gross income of less than $2,500. This was one of the gaping holes that had to be filled.

Turner outlined a plan to enable Liberal MPs to represent their constituencies better.

He said each should have an office and secretary in his home riding as a means of achieving "more physical presence." This would help the party in the West, convincing Westerners that the party really cares about them.

Turner even had a word of advice for reporters. Members of the news media had a responsibility to "tell it the way they see it," but also should try to present a balance of opinions.

He said he does not like the idea of any control over the press, nor does he like the idea of control over advertising.

—Frank Church,
U.S. Senator

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who carried the dreams of millions of Negroes in his nonviolent battle for racial freedom, was slain by a white sniper Thursday.

The 39-year-old Nobel Peace Prize winner fell dying on the balcony of his hotel room, a gapping bullet wound in his neck. "Martin is dead . . . God help us all," gasped a civil rights leader when he heard the news. Police said they had no leads to King's assassin.

President Johnson went on national television to plead for calm.

DROPPED RIFLE

Police issued a bulletin for a young, dark-haired white man who dashed out of a flophouse across South Main Street from the Lorraine Hotel, where King was staying. They said he dropped a semi-automatic Browning rifle on the sidewalk and fled in car.

"We have no definite lead we can report at this time regarding the assailant," Chief Frank Holloman said.

King, who walked with death on cold northern streets and sunbaked southern highways in his 10-year battle as the nation's most prominent civil rights leader, was standing on the second-floor balcony of his room at the Lorraine Hotel at dusk talking to his followers on the street.

WHEELED, FELL!

He asked a bandleader from one of his Chicago projects to play Precious Lord at a mass rally later, and smilingly agreed to his chauffeur's demands that he put on his topcoat.

"I heard the gun," said the driver, Solomon Jones. "He wheeled around and fell on his back."

James Jackson, a local Negro leader, said he had just started to speak to King when "the bullet exploded in his face."

King was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital emergency room, a bloody white towel around his throat and an oxygen mask on his face. Doctors reported he died at 5:05 p.m.

Anguish, Shock —And Shame

NEW YORK (AP) — From President Johnson to a woman weeping in Detroit, the U.S. reacted to the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Thursday night with anguish, shock and pleas that his death would not lead to the violence he deplored.

"We have been saddened," President Johnson said on radio and television. "I ask every citizen to reject the blind violence that has struck Dr. King, who died by non-violence."

Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey said the slaying "brings shame to our country."

NEW STRENGTH

"An apostle of non-violence has been the victim of violence." The vice-president, however, said Dr. King's death will bring new strength to the cause he fought for.

Mrs. Rosa Parks, one of the earliest prominent figures in the modern civil rights movement, wept at her Detroit home:

"I can't talk now, I just can't talk."

ANGER . . . LOVE

"We kill our conscience, we cut open our soul. I can't say what is in my heart—anger, fear, love for him and sorrow for his family and the family of black people."

James Meredith, who was shot in June, 1966, during a voter registration march in Mississippi, said: "This is America's answer to the peaceful, non-violent way of obtaining rights in this country."

Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the NAACP is "shocked and deeply grieved by the dastardly murder of Dr. Martin Luther King."

CAN'T BE KILLED

"It will not stay the civil rights movement; it will instead spur it to greater activity."

Leontyne Price, a soprano for the Metropolitan Opera and a Negro, said: "What Dr. Martin Luther King stood for and was, can never be killed with bullets."

Angry crowds of singing, shouting rock-throwing Negroes roamed the nation's streets Thursday night, looting and demonstrating violently to the assassination of Martin Luther King.

General rioting flared in Memphis, Tenn., where King was gunned down earlier in the evening. Police exchanged sporadic gunfire with rioters. State troopers and national guardsmen were rushed in to help restore order.

White newsmen at the Lorraine Hotel, where King was shot, said a gang of Negro toughs backed them into a corner and told them "You're going to get yours next. And it ain't going to be too long."

Cooler heads among the Negroes prevailed.

Elsewhere over the nation, disturbances were reported in the Harlem and Brooklyn areas of New York City, and in Washington, Raleigh, N.C., Birmingham, Ala., Miami, Fla., Jackson, Miss., Oakland, Calif., and Boston.

Peaceful demonstrations were widespread.

Harlem Looters Busy

In Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section, a UPI newsmen counted 25 looters on Fulton Street cleaning a clothing store of its stock. Disturbances also were reported in Brooklyn.

Firemen also were reported battling minor fires in various sections of Harlem.

Mayor John Lindsay left a Broadway play when he heard of King's death. With a Negro police official, Lindsay went immediately to Harlem and was reportedly walking the streets of the Negro community, trying to lend an aura of calm to the troubled area.

At Negro colleges and universities throughout the south, students spilled into the streets, chanting and throwing rocks.

In Raleigh, hundreds of young Negroes battled police, smashed windows, looted stores and stoned cars. Cars passing Shaw University were

"It is foolish to reject, or ignore ideas and policies merely because they would have shocked Queen Victoria.

Without giving his preference, Pearson was saying the party must be put into the hands of a man with the ability to make tremendous change.

"Today Liberals must tackle problems that our grandparents never heard of, the quality, as well as the material standard of living."

These problems covered urban development and housing, communications on land, water and in the air, and in outer space.

To Promised Land

'I May Not Get There with You'

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — "I may not get there with you, but I want you to know tonight that we as a people will get to the promised land."

Thus spoke Martin Luther King, Jr., less than 24 hours before he was cut down by an assassin's bullet.

King addressed a Memphis rally Wednesday night in his continuing campaign here in support of striking garbage workers.

"Like anybody, I would like to live a long life. Longevity has its place, but I'm not concerned about that now. I just want to do God's will and he has allowed me to go up the mountain and I've seen the promised land. I may not get there with you but I want you to know tonight that we as a people will get to the promised land."

"So I'm happy tonight. I'm not worried about anything. I'm not fearing any man. Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord."

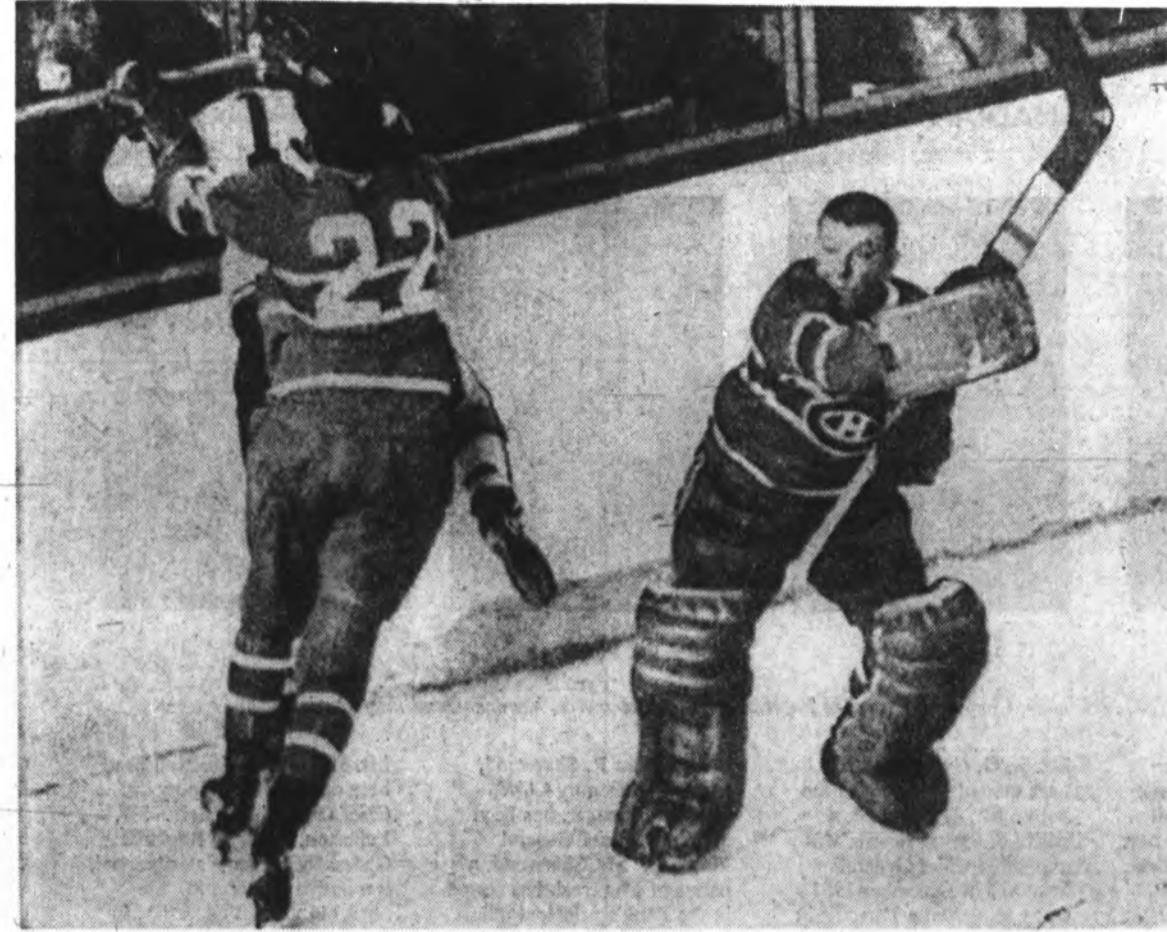

"Nonetheless an immediate investigation has been ordered," Assistant Secretary Phil Goulding said in issuing the defense department statement.

White House sources indicated the choice of a successor to the U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. William Westmoreland, will be on the weekend agenda.

Westmoreland and Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker will be in the U.S. contingent from Saigon. Flying out from Washington are Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and William P. Bundy, assistant secretary of state for East Asian affairs.

Arriving at Honolulu Saturday night from a foreign ministers' meeting in New Zealand is State Secretary Dean Rusk.

Blues, Kings Lead in West

Homecoming for the Philadelphia Flyers proved to be a flop Thursday as St. Louis Blues blanked the punchless Eastern Division champions, 1-0, before 10,469 fans in the opening game of the best-of-seven National Hockey League quarter-final series.

Los Angeles Kings took a 1-0 lead in the other expansion division series by defeating Minnesota North Stars, 2-1, before 7,847 fans at Los Angeles.

Flyers, who played most of their home games during March in Quebec City after sections of the roof fell in at the new Philadelphia Spectrum, were shut out for the third time in their last five games, twice by the Blues.

Philadelphia managed only 14 shots on the St. Louis net while Blues fired 33 shots at Bernie Parent, winning the game when Jim Roberts scored from 12 feet out with just less than six minutes remaining in the final period.

The game was a strictly defensive battle as Flyers have now managed only six goals in their last six games. The ice was extremely soft and puddles formed at different stages.

OUTSHOT STARS

Bill White's goal at 3:13 of the final period proved to be the winner as Los Angeles outshot the visitors, 40-31, Dave Balon, backup goalkeeper Terry Sawchuk, 41 seconds later to bring the North Stars to within one goal but the veteran goalkeeper, who was playing his 96th playoff game, was unbeatable the rest of the game.

Ed Joya, Kings' leading scorer, gave Los Angeles a 1-0

lead just before the end of the second period.

Coliseum Claims Breach of Contract

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Claiming breach of contract, the Los Angeles Coliseum Commission is planning to sue California Sports, Inc., and President Jack Kent Cooke for about $132,000.

At its monthly meeting, the commission voted unanimously to direct its attorneys to file suit against the firm, owners of the Los Angeles Lakers' basketball team and Los Angeles Kings' hockey team.

Cooke, the commission claims, rented the Sports Arena this past season for 37 Lakers games, only 15 of which were played. Cooke allegedly failed to pay for 22 games.

Cooke said his lawyers feel the contract was signed under "economic duress" and therefore unenforceable.

Cooke's Comments Disappoint Campbell

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, says he is disappointed in

Jack Kent Cooke, owner of Los Angeles Kings, for his claim that the Kings were "bilked" of a victory over the Oakland Seals Saturday.

"It is disappointing to find that a sportsman of Mr. Cooke's stature would descend to excusing his team's failure ... by using that hoary old alibi 'we wuz robed,'" Campbell said in a statement Wednesday night.

He was replying to remarks made in Los Angeles Tuesday by Cooke, who said a referee's inexperience cost his club a first-place finish in the NHL's west division.

"Mr. Cooke has stated that the referee erred in his call disallowing the goal," Campbell said. "This is his opinion.

I have only the referee's version of the incident, which supports his decision.

"However I will be in Los Angeles on Saturday and I will review the game films myself and make my own assessment."

Campbell said Cooke "seems to have overlooked the fact that his team lost 33 other games and tied another nine games over the regular schedule."

75 points, any one of which would have accomplished his objective. Instead he chooses to blame the team's failure to come first on a referee's judgment call in the final period of the season."

Lions Sign Three Williams

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League announced three player signings Thursday and you can lump them all under one surname: Williams.

The three imports are Ralph, Richard and Malcolm Williams and they are not related.

Ralph Williams, 23, cousin of Lions halfback Leroy Sledge, is a 6-2, 225-pound defensive end and linebacker from Allen University in Columbia, South Carolina.

Richard Williams, 26, joins the Lions after four years of semi-pro ball in South Carolina. The 5-10, 190-pound prospect runs the 100-yard dash in 9.4 and is the brother of former world record sprint specialist Willie Williams.

Malcolm Williams, 25, and a 6-2, 245-pound guard and linebacker, earned Junior College All-American status at Santa Barbara Junior College in 1964 and later played for Parsons College.

Ambitious Society Finds New Tools for Children

PORT ALBERNI — Financial help for the Hearing Handicapped Children's Society pre-school class is to be provided by Elks Lodge 101.

The society, formed this week, has been told that the $3,500 annual budget for the class — the only one of its kind on Vancouver Island — will be underwritten by the lodge.

The society has been active for several months. It is now to have its charter prepared and will be a legal entity within a few weeks.

Cash Gifts

The class was started in January with the help of donations from service clubs and individuals.

Special education supervisor Art Tinney and the society's secretary Mrs. Jean Hall, pointed out the Elks' help does not stop other groups from participating.

Mr. Tinney said, "The group has a threefold objective. First is formation of the class for preschoolers, and the second is to undertake early detection of hearing problems.

The third is the great need for public education campaign to make adults aware of the problems of children with hearing handicaps, and to appreciate the need for facilities here.

Interest, he added, is basic to detection.

Even with funds for class, the second two objectives also bring a heavy financial burden.

At present the pre-school class operates five days a week, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. in a classroom at Eighth Avenue School, used in the mornings by school-aged children with severe hearing problems.

School boards have no authority to provide funds for preschool children. However they have given special permission for them to use the special equipment installed for older students when it is not in use.

Wider Tests

The equipment comprises an electronic induction loop which enables children to hear over a longer distance than ordinary hearing aids which are out of range when children move more than a few feet from the teacher.

Next year the society hopes to test every kindergarten child in the valley. With the equipment it has at present, only eight children can be tested in an hour.

As the wider program will take 80 hours, plus the services of two trained people, more audiometric equipment will be essential.

The society's greatest hope is that the idea will spread to avoid the back-room existence of deaf-mutes. These children can not speak because they do not hear.

Mrs. Hall "If we can do it in Port Alberni and receive the support from the community done here is first-rate. The more we have found, we hope the program offered is excellent and the methods are up to date."

The Elks plan to keep it that way and are starting off with a major radio bingo game, April 22. The entire proceeds of which will go toward the support of the class.

Reeve Morton stressed the council's agreement is subject to a thorough discussion with the city of Duncan before a definite decision is made.

Coun. Dennis Hogan asked for the preparation of the bylaw which will include phases 1, 2 and 8 of the Sanderson Report.

NANAIMO — A man making 86.2 cents an hour is willing to take a wage cut to ensure vital ambulance services in the city are maintained.

Gordon Wagner, Island Ambulance Service operator, asked the regional district board Thursday for a $35,248.52 grant to match the $300 monthly subsidy he gets from the city.

His brief was tabled for a month so that board members could study it and investigate need for the service outlined by Mr. Wagner.

Mr. Wagner's net wage last year was $7,209.42, but he told the board that if a grant was made he would only pay himself $7,200.

He said the reason he would take less is that he would benefit by working less hours and having holiday time because four additional men would be employed.

He told of one emergency during which volunteer drivers were unavailable. His wife, clothed in nightdress had to drive the second ambulance to a motor vehicle accident.

His brief told the board that the area from Extension to Na-noose was 26 miles long and contained 32,930 people. At present there are three volunteer drivers who alternate standby shifts without pay.

Mr. Wagner proposes, if he is given the subsidy, to employ four full-time drivers willing to accept $475 a month.

With additional items such as uniforms, holiday pay, and unemployment insurance, it would cost $564.02 a month for each man.

He said if the district were to attempt the service itself, the cost would exceed $88,000, with a revenue of $17,000.

The difference in cost to him, as against the cost to the district, was that the district would have to employ union men and provide union terms of employment, he explained.

'Job Should Be Done Now'

Recreation Cost Rises

Hogan

In principle and the request will be cleared with the recreation commission.

Coun. Gerry Smith, proprietor of the Horseshoe Bay Inn at Chemainus, offered the courtesy of his inn free to the invited guests to help the association with expenses.

It's official.

The name of the new $400,000 ice arena near Chemainus will be the Fuller's Lake Arena. The name was submitted by the Chemainus Ratepayers and Citizens' Association, and approved by council.

Council also agree to:

- Purchase five acres of land adjoining Vimy Hall on Gibbins Road at a cost of $825 per acre;
- Hire a full-time maintenance man to work on municipal parks and Pioneer Park;

Councils Make Progress On Flooding and Zoning

DUNCAN — City Mayor Jim Quaife and North Cowichan Reeve Donald Morton agreed their two councils showed a spirit of co-operation when they held a meeting behind closed doors at city hall.

Hammered out by the elected administrators were decisions regarding a sewage lagoon for North Cowichan, drainage at Centennial Heights subdivision to prevent the recurrence of flooding in that area, and cooperation in the field of zoning questions.

Mayor Quaife said, "We made quite a bit of progress." The reeve commented "it was a very satisfactory meeting."

The reeve added, "We had a lot of active debates and strong views were expressed."

"We received a good deal of information and we made good progress."

Quaife

Mayor Quaife noted the city decided to relinquish a piece of land adjacent to the city's sewage lagoon so North Cowichan will be able to build its own sewage lagoon.

The city originally kept the lease, but now the municipality is negotiating a lease with the Cowichan Indian Band council.

Both councils instructed their representatives to the Cowichan Valley Regional District Board to press for the building of a Kiwanis ambulance building as soon as possible.

Aldermen and councillors agreed the financing of the capital cost for that building should be paid for by the area served by the Kiwanis ambulance.

The area stretches from the cloverleaf north of Duncan to the Malahat, and it includes a large part of unorganized area which is represented on the regional board.

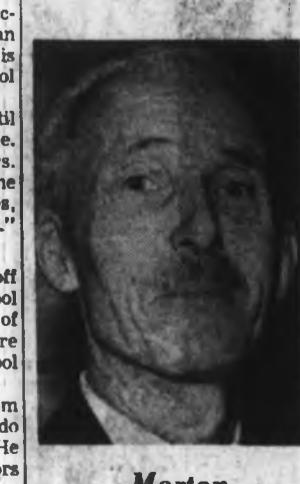

The drainage problem at the Centennial Heights subdivision which several weeks ago led to the flooding of several basements in new homes, will be studied by Ald. Jim Saunders and Coun. George Whittaker together with the engineers.

The reeve said there are several alternatives.

Investigations will show whether or not the cost of $35,000 can be lowered.

The public health centre will be advised to include the maintenance for the building into its budget to show either as maintenance costs or as rent being paid to the city.

The budget is being submitted to the provincial government, Mayor Quaife said.

School Population Explosodes

BY JEAN MacGREGOR

LAKE COWICHAN — Today's emphasis on the population explosion and planned parenthood has not become evident in the Lake Cowichan School District.

Trustee Alec Walker said the projected enrollment for the district's nine schools show an increase of 44 students for next fall.

Administrator and secretary-treasurer Ron Kimak, explained there will be an estimated 1,718 students in the district this fall.

He also noted, "This year's enrollment is 59 students higher than last year's total. We just don't know where they are all coming from."

To accommodate the student increase, the board is planning to build a large primary school complex to be known as the South Shore primary. Architect's plans are being drawn up, but it will be several months before the new school is ready for occupancy.

Trustee Walker said according to the projected enrollment figures, there will be about 14 students at the Mesachie Lake Elementary School this fall. He recommended the students be transferred to one of the schools within the village, or to the Honeymoon Bay Elementary, west of Lake Cowichan.

Trustee Walker stated, "Following investigation, it would seem feasible to move the Mesachie Lake School to a site on the Lake Cowichan Secondary School grounds.

Trustee Walker said the cost of moving the school would be $3,200.

He stated, "For a complete cost of $5,000, we can move the school, place it on a new foundation, and install plumbing, heating and electrical connections."

He added, "If for some reason a district band room is not needed in the future, the building can be used as two classrooms."

The area is also in need of accommodation for a library, and Trustee Walker said his committee is investigating the use of an old teacherage located on the secondary school grounds.

He stated, "We feel the teacherage will give us suitable temporary accommodation for the district school library, until better facilities can be constructed."

He noted there is a great need in the district for a band room, and he recommended the Mesachie Lake school building be used.

In doing this the board will abandon a previous plan to purchase extensions for a portable classroom which has to be set up as a band room.

Trustee Walker said the cost of moving the school would be $3,200.

He stated, "We feel the teacherage will give us suitable temporary accommodation for the district school library, until better facilities can be constructed."

Superintendent of Schools Harvey MacKirdy received the board's approval to provide bus transportation for students to travel to Victoria next winter. He said, "Three plays will be presented at Bastion Theatre next winter, and tickets are now going on sale while student enthusiasm is still high after seeing the recent production of 'Taming of the Shrew.'

Mr. MacKirdy said the Lake Cowichan students had thoroughly enjoyed the experience.

He stated, "You will remember from your own school days the difficulty in understanding plays until you had seen them performed on stage. Plays are written to be acted, not just to be read."

Mr. Ernest Clode has been appointed adult education director for the Lake Cowichan district, on a temporary basis for the remainder of the school year.

The position was held until recently by the late Mr. Clode.

Mr. MacKirdy said, "Mrs. Clode did a good job when she took over the director's duties, and she is a qualified teacher."

The school board is selling off some of the district's old school equipment. Superintendent of works John Curran said there are still about 40 old school desks for home use, for sale.

He said, "We are selling them for a dollar a piece, and they do not need any repairs." He added there are also some doors and windows available.

Alberni Writer Honored

PORT ALBERNI — A book by Margaret Trebett, local newspaperwoman and freelance writer, was praised by school trustees.

Copies of the book, Pioneer Women of Alberni Valley, were presented to board chairman G.W. Gray for distribution in all valley schools.

It was commissioned by the Alberni District Museum and Historical Society. Mrs. Trebett is a descendant of a pioneer family.

Society president, Mrs. E.W. Adams, made the presentation and said it was planned to produce other books on similar subjects.

She stressed the need for research materials for students' research.

It has received its charter and Mrs. Helen Patenaude has been appointed supervisor.

"We will stand ready to help any family in any income group in an emergency," said Mrs. Patenaude. "However we are not just a baby-sitting service."

An example of where the society will stop in is when a mother is rushed to hospital, the father has to work and the children must be looked after.

Mrs. Patenaude said when that sort of thing happens, a homemaker will help on a short-term basis until regular help or a relative can take over.

She said the society will

RIOTS FLASH ACROSS U.S.

Martin Luther King Death Sparks Violent Protests

White
Sniper Sought

We are steeped in violence; it is the curse of the land

—Frank Church,
U.S. Senator

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who carried the dreams of millions of Negroes in his nonviolent battle for racial freedom, was slain by a white sniper Thursday.

The 39-year-old Nobel Peace Prize winner fell dying on the balcony of his hotel room, a gapping bullet wound in his neck. "Martin is dead . . . God help us all," gasped a civil rights leader when he heard the news. Police said they had no leads to King's assassin.

President Johnson went on national television to plead for calm.

DROPPED RIFLE

Police issued a bulletin for a young, dark-haired white man who dashed out of a flophouse across South Main Street from the Lorraine Hotel, where King was staying. They said he dropped a semi-automatic Browning rifle on the sidewalk and fled in a car.

"We have no definite lead we can report at this time regarding the assailant," Chief Frank Holloman said.

King, who walked with death on cold northern streets and sunbaked southern highways in his 10-year battle as the nation's most prominent civil rights leader, was standing on the second-floor balcony of his room at the Lorraine Hotel at dusk talking to his followers on the street.

WHEELED, FELL'

He asked a bandleader from one of his Chicago projects to play Precious Lord at a mass rally later, and smilingly agreed to his chauffeur's demands that he put on his topee.

"I heard the gun," said the driver, Solomon Jones. "He wheeled around and fell on his back."

James Jackson, a local Negro leader, said he had just started to speak to King when "the bullet exploded in his face."

King was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital emergency room, a white, blood-stained towel around his throat and an oxygen mask on his face. Doctors reported he died at 5:05 p.m.

Anguish, Shock —And Shame

NEW YORK (AP) — From President Johnson to a woman weeping in Detroit, the U.S. reacted to the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Thursday night with anguish, shock and pleas that his death would not lead to the violence he deplored.

"We have been saddened," President Johnson said on radio and television. "I ask every citizen to reject the blind violence that has struck Dr. King, who lived by non-violence."

Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey said the slaying "brings shame to our country."

NEW STRENGTH

"An apostle of non-violence has been the victim of violence." The vice-president, however, said Dr. King's death will bring new strength to the cause he fought for.

Mrs. Rosa Parks, one of the earliest prominent figures in the modern civil rights movement, wept at her Detroit home: "I can't talk now, I just can't talk."

"Martin is dead," said James Farmer, former national director of the Congress of Racial Equality. "God help us all."

ANGER . . . LOVE

"We kill our conscience, we cut open our soul. I can't say what is in my heart—anger, fear, love for him and sorrow for his family and the family of black people."

James Meredith, who was shot in June 1966, during a voter registration march in Mississippi, said: "This is America's answer to the peaceful, non-violent way of obtaining rights in this country."

Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the NAACP is "shocked and deeply grieved by the dastardly murder of Dr. Martin Luther King."

CAN'T BE KILLED

"It will not stay the civil rights movement; it will instead spur it to greater activity."

Leontyne Price, a soprano for the Metropolitan Opera and a Negro, said: "What Dr. Martin Luther King stood for and was, can never be killed with a bullet."

Whitney Young, executive director of the NAACP, said: "The party must adapt to change that Queen Victoria could never have visualized."

Mail Order Guns Still Legal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday killed President Johnson's proposal to outlaw the sale of firearms through the mail. However, by a 9-3 vote the president's Safe Streets Act was approved to provide $100,000,000 worth of federal grants the first year and $300,000,000, worth the second year to states and communities to bolster law enforcement.

Word of King's death triggered a rash of window smashing, looting and fires in the heart of Harlem. Disturbances also were reported in Brooklyn.

A four-alarm fire broke out at 125th Street and Lenox Avenue and firemen reported they were being attacked with stones and bottles.

Looting reportedly was heavy on 125th Street and a number of young Negroes were seen carrying television sets, radios and tape recorders.

Peaceful demonstrations were widespread.

Harlem Looters Busy

In Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section, a UPI newsman counted 25 looters on Fulton Street cleaning a clothing store of its stock.

Firemen also were reported battling minor fires in various sections of Harlem.

Mayor John Lindsay left a Broadway play when he heard of King's death. With a Negro police official, Lindsay went immediately to Harlem and was reportedly walking the streets of the Negro community, trying to lend an aura of calm to the troubled area.

Riot Squads Called

In the nation's capital where King was to lead a huge demonstration beginning April 22, young Negroes looted stores in the area of King's Washington headquarters.

Riot squads and fire equipment were rushed to the area where burglar alarms rippled through the cool night air. Police hoped showers would help cool the ugly mood.

At Negro colleges and universities throughout the south, students spilled into the streets, chanting and throwing rocks.

In Raleigh, hundreds of young Negroes battled police, smashed windows, looted stores and stoned cars. Cars

Roaring 10,000 Bid Farewell to Pearson

he might have been hinting Pierre Elliot Trudeau, who is rumored to be his favorite to succeed him.

He told the crowded, roaring throng of 10,000 gathered to send him on his way that the new Liberalism must concern itself with conditions of life far removed from those only a few years ago when Liberal doctrines were formed.

"It is foolish to reject or ignore ideas and policies merely because they would have shocked Queen Victoria.

The party that would win, and deserve the support of the people, was the one that understood the requirement for change, that could face reality with a minimum of fear and illusion.

"Today Liberals must tackle problems that our grandparents never heard of; the quality, as well as the material standard of living."

These problems covered urban development and housing, communications on land, water and in the air, and in outer space.

Without giving his preference, Pearson was saying the party must be put into the hands of a man with the ability to make tremendous change.

Intolerance, prejudice, discrimination and every form of injustice.

"Our party must march into the future with confidence and without doubt."

"We can leave to conservatism and socialism the placid satisfaction that comes from adherence to the out-of-date dogmas and slogans of yesterday."

It was one of Pearson's greatest speeches, received with the affection and grad-

By NANCY BROWN

Education department officials have indicated they will approve construction of part of a new elementary school in Victoria West, school board chairman Peter Bunn told a PTA-arranged meeting Thursday.

"I think the lid has lifted a bit on the freeze," he said.

Architects had met for critical discussions with school board and education department officials Tuesday and will bring revised plans for submission Monday.

"I think we will be allowed to go to tender for the classrooms, and see if we can come up with some favorable figures," said Mr. Bunn.

trolled bank essential. Money loaned to Quebec was being repaid in installments to build the Columbia Treaty dams and was not available for schools.

He blamed the federal government's tight money policy for the freeze on construction.

Mr. Bruch said the government's concern was for the development of the province, and the chronically sick and the children are suffering.

Mr. Bunn retorted that the concern of parents and school board was for the young people.

"This terrific gamble may pay off. We may get the industries, but who will get the good jobs in these industries?"

"The future of our children is being sacrificed for this venture."

"The government isn't concerning itself about people, and the chronically sick and the children are suffering.

"This terrific gamble may pay off. We may get the industries, but who will get the good jobs in these industries?"

"The people who'll get the really worthwhile jobs in these industries will be people like myself who came as immigrants to this country in the late 40s."

Victoria Fire Chief Eric Simmons said the department was satisfied with the safety factors in the school, with certain modifications already made.

Safety Group Urged To Get Going

What the city needs to stop "carnage in the streets" is an all-inclusive, high-powered, many-faceted campaign, members of the newly-formed Greater Victoria Safety Council were told Thursday.

Traffic Engineer David Campbell urged the council, which is in the midst of organizational birth pains, to "get on with the job."

What the city has been lacking in such committees as the traffic safety committee of the chamber of commerce, he said, was someone to conduct specific campaigns.

TALK TO ELDERLY

What was needed was someone or group to get behind and actively support Safe Driving Week; someone to go to the senior citizens' centre and talk to the old people about walking at night in dark clothing, and how to conduct themselves with safety on the streets.

Chairman of the meeting, Peter Pollen, suggested that the interests of the council should embrace all kinds of safety — road safety, water safety and safety from household and industrial accidents.

Deadline for application was Monday, but withdrawals can be made until August.

Majority of those wishing to quit are below the rank of petty officer. No officers have submitted applications to leave.

The release regulation was a special provision of the Canadian Armed Forces Re-organization Act, and went into effect Jan. 31.

Anybody who asked to be released could expect to go within six months of application, the spokesman said.

Gun Wound Death Cause

City fireman Donald Thompson, 50, died of a gunshot wound in the head which brought about a cerebral hemorrhage and a fractured skull.

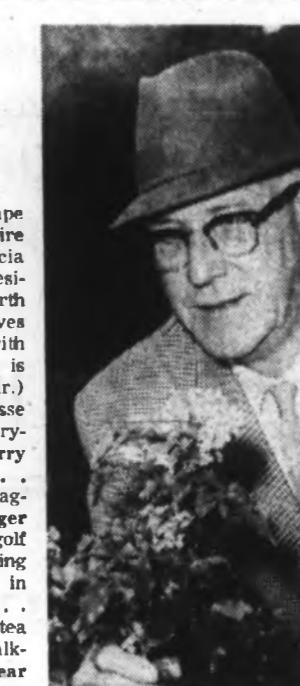

A coroner's jury ruled, Thursday night that the death was suicide.

Mr. Thompson's body was found in the Gorge off Garibaldi Road March 26.

There was a bullet wound in his head, a pickaxe tied around his waist and a five-pound lead weight tied around his neck.

He said plans would have to exclude replacement of activity room, change rooms and administration areas.

MLA Herbert Bruch fielded questions for 90 minutes in a meeting which frequently turned hotly political.

He was asked what he was doing for his constituents, and how far he was prepared to go to advance their interests, especially in pushing for a new school.

"I have a responsibility to my constituents, but I have to take the wider view," he replied.

He said he had asked questions both in and out of the House, and urged approval of the school when possible.

He said money was made available for the development of a superport at Roberts Bank because it would develop the province and lead to the establishment of secondary industries.

Bank Essential

The provincial government had not asked the federal government to build the port because of a matter of control.

He said dams were also essential to encourage secondary industries, to give school graduates work in the province.

He was asked why the civil service superannuation fund couldn't be used for school investment, instead of bank investment.

Mr. Bruch replied the government considered establishment of a western-con-

Schools Amendment Passes Second Reading

'Standards Lowered' by Bill

Amendments to the Public Schools Act establishing a new education finance formula were given clause-by-clause approval by the Legislature early today. The bill was amended in community and will receive third or final reading either today or early next week. In this case, it is merely formal approval by the opposition parties indicating by vote whether they support the measure.

During the 2½-hour debate, one Liberal and several NDP members tried without success to get Education Minister Leslie Peterson to give further details of the impact of the new formula on school districts.

Allan Macfarlane (L-Oak Bay), alone because other Liberal members are in Ottawa, charged the government with trying to lower the average pupil cost so that the school system will be mediocre across the province.

"The result will be the lowest common denominator, destroying education and quality of education," he said.

"Greater Victoria has done an excellent job in this line—$51 per pupil last year—while maintaining high educational standards," Mr. Macfarlane said.

Mr. Peterson said one of the features of the new formula is that by making lump grants, it will be "much easier" for school boards to provide quality services which were previously non-shareable. But he refused to be specific in reply to questions about aid to educational TV and other special services.

Opposition leader Robert Strachan said: "The minister is talking softly, but he is still carrying a big stick. I simply can't accept his suggestion that this legislation will bring light and reason and peace to the B.C. school system."

The house adjourned at 12:30 p.m.

The destroyer escorts HMS Mackenzie and Columbia leave Esquimalt Monday morning for southern California and Mexican waters. They will return May 6.

The cruise will complete the last phase of sea training for 13 naval officer cadets of the Fleet School at CFB Esquimalt. They recently finished a seven-week cruise in the South Pacific.

Rowing teams from Claremont, Brentwood College and Shawnigan Lake School will compete in races from 11 a.m. to noon.

Victoria Policemen Receive Promotion

Victoria police department has two new staff sergeants and two new sergeants following promotions announced Thursday.

Promoted to staff sergeant and second-in-command of the detective bureau is Det. Walter Calwell, a veteran of more than 22 years. Sgt. Keith Hollett is now a staff sergeant and will be attached to the patrol division.

Rowing teams from Claremont, Brentwood College and Shawnigan Lake School will compete in races from 11 a.m. to noon.

Constable Lorne Shandley, who will serve in the detective division, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant.

Sgt. Shandley was involved in an arbitration board ruling a year ago concerning alleged bias in promotions. He has long been president of the Victoria police union. He joined the force in 1946.

Constable William Sommerville, who joined the force in 1957, has been promoted to sergeant and will serve in the patrol division.

Staff Sgt. Calwell is a second-generation member of the force. His father, also named Walter, was an inspector and retired six months before young Walter joined the force on discharge from the army in 1945.

He signed up as an artilleryman with an anti-aircraft battalion in Victoria and was transferred to the South Saskatchewan Regiment of Infantry overseas where he served in France, Germany and Belgium.

Illness Grants Ships Brief Reprieve

By MARK DICKINSON

A crew member of a Japanese tug went to hospital in Victoria Thursday night and slightly altered the course of a tow line from the tug Toko Maru, and were destined for a scrap yard at Sakai, Japan.

Early this morning, Victorians were to bid goodbye to two of the last naval frigates on the coast — one of them a pioneer weather ship on Station Papa.

tors might operate on Tsuboi sometime today, and he would be held here for at least a week.

There was also speculation he might be kept in hospital for a few days and later returned to Japan for the operation.

"He's not acutely ill right now, but the doctors are watching him," the spokesman said.

A shipping official said the time of departure would not be known until this afternoon.

all pending the doctors' decision on Mr. Tsuboi.

The tug, owned by Mitsui Shipping of Osaka, arrived in Esquimalt harbor at noon Thursday.

The Beacon Hill and St. Catherines were to make their last trip to sea on the end of a tow line from the tug Toko Maru, and were destined for a scrap yard at Sakai, Japan.

Both vessels were once proud warships that plied the Pacific Ocean in the service of the Royal Canadian Navy.

The Beacon Hill—HMSM until she was decommissioned last September—was the last frigate of Pacific Maritime Command.

The 301-foot, 1,570-ton warship was built by Yarrow's Ltd. early in the war years and was active until only a few years ago.

The St. Catherines is a sister ship to the Beacon Hill, and was built in 1943 at Yarrow's.

Both ships were replaced over the past two years by the $12,000,000 vessels, Quadra and Vancouver.

The St. Catherines was returned to the West Coast and turned over to the transport department as a weather ship.

She and the St. Catherines became pioneers of Station Papa, an area 900 miles west of Victoria that is renowned for its hurricane-force winds and mountainous seas in winter.

Both ships were replaced over the past two years by the $12,000,000 vessels, Quadra and Vancouver.
